National Open Golf Tournament Starts

FAVOR BOBBY JONES FOR CHAMPIONSHIP AS PLAYERS TEE OFF

Columbus Is "Golf Crazy"
As Meet Gets Under Way

SCIOTO COUNTRY CLUB, COLUMBUS, O., July 8.—More than one "golf widow" will wonder where her wandering spouse is tonight.

More than one flickering incandescent will burn in the window to guide the golfer to his home.

For not since the day when Red Grange made his last appearance here as a college football player has this town been so wrought up over a sporting event and this event, so-called was the national open golf tournament which began today.

Everybody in the town from the hotel bootblack to the warden of the penitentiary was golf crazy and to judge from the horde of golf knickers and "loud speaking" socks and sweaters, very evident on the highways and byways of this metropolis, anybody who is anybody is fiercely and vitally interested in the outcome of the tournament.

Who is going to win this year's classic? That is the question every one was asking. King Willie McFarlane, champion last year and who can be said to qualify in questions of this kind, his answer was:

"I think the fellow who beats Bobby Jones will capture first place."

Willie is a bit modest. Among seasoned observers, McFarlane has a bright chance to repeat his 1925 honors as hard as that achievement is.

And talking about the Jones', Bobby's whole family is here to wish him well and success. Incidentally about half the city of Atlanta also came here to cheer their hero on. Bobby's dad, when questioned about the outcome remarked:

"All of the boys who played in the British open built up their games for that event and naturally are past the peak now. Bobby and the other boys who went over will have to be super-golfers to come right back in this battle to finish up well."

Among the more famous of the visitors is Glenna Collett, the young national women's champion for several years.

A bookmaker from Boston whose odds on the players might be taken as a criterion of expert and careful judgment, makes these odds on the stars: Bobby Jones, 4 to 1; Hagen, 5 to 1; McDonald, 8 to 1; Willie McFarlane, 10 to 1; Al Watrous, 10 to 1; Johnny Farrell, 12 to 1; Jim Barnes, 12 to 1; Gene Sarazen, 12 to 1.

ATTORNEY ARGUES FOR CONVICTION

CHICAGO, July 8.—Having been a bootlegger for three years, Martin Durkin, on trial for killing Edwin C. Shanahan, Federal Agent, should have expected to be pursued by the police, Michael Romano, assistant state attorney declared today in resuming his closing argument to the jury.

In his defense, Durkin claimed he was unaware Shanahan was a federal agent, when he shot him. He testified that he believed him to be a bandit.

"Durkin knew in that garage where the shooting took place," Romano said, "that the only thing that could happen to him was the temporary restraint of his person."

Romano argued that the shooting of Shanahan was indicative of Durkin's desire to retain his liberty "at any cost."

The young prosecutor was expected to conclude his argument shortly before noon. He will be followed by assistant defense counsel Libonati.

The largest crowd since the case began, sought admission to the courtroom. A line of persons waiting to get in stood twelve abreast for nearly a block.

No standing was permitted in the chamber. Mrs. Durkin, mother of the defendant was in court for the first time in three days.

UPHOLD CONVICTION

GALLIPOLIS, O., July 8.—A decision of the court of appeals here, brought John Bryant, negro sentenced to die September 2, in connection with the murder of James McCumber of Pomeroy, a step nearer the electric chair. The court held it could find no error in his previous trial and that a proper verdict had been rendered.

SENATOR WILLIS SPEAKS

MISSING XENIAN

CLARENCE STEPHENSON

A letter from Monroe, Mich., received Thursday morning, partially solved the mysterious disappearance of Clarence Stephenson, 40, Fairground Ave., bookkeeper for The Eavey Co., missing since Tuesday afternoon. The letter, written by Stephenson, was addressed to his friend, C. E. Wilkin, optometrist, and contained an enclosure for Mrs. Stephenson. Its writing is said to indicate Stephenson was in a highly nervous state when the note was penned. Although brief, the family said the letter indicated Stephenson was a "nervous wreck" but would be "all right in a few days." Because it intimated he would go to Detroit, Mich., Mrs. Stephenson, her two children and her sister, and brother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. James Andrews, Detroit, Mich., left for Detroit by motor Thursday morning.

DEMOCRATIC DRIVE WILL BE LAUNCHED TO ASSIST WILSON

Defeat of Vare and Saloon League To Be Object

WASHINGTON, July 8.—A Democratic drive to defeat William S. Vare, Republican senatorial nominee in Pennsylvania and a prolonged revolt against the power of the Anti-Saloon League are to be the immediate effects of disclosure by the senate primary investigating committee in its month's inquiry just concluded.

Senate leaders conferred before adjournment, the United Press learned today about the advisability of serving formal notice that Vare would not be seated but this plan was rejected and it was decided to let the November election take its course.

"I went to the leaders and told them it would be heartless to let Vare go through his campaign and that the senate ought to tell him now that he won't be seated," a Democratic leader said. "I thought it was only fair to him that he should know now how the senate feels about it, before he spends more time and money."

"The answer I got from them was 'Celebrate error—let the buyers beware.'"

Some Democratic leaders believe this is the best course and are preparing to throw as much support into Pennsylvania to aid the candidacy of William B. Wilson, Democratic senatorial nominee as in any other state this fall.

The attack on the Anti-Saloon League will be led from platforms throughout the country by Senator Reed, Democrat, Missouri, wet on the basis of evidence, as chairman of the committee, brought out showing:

The pre-prohibition investment of the League was $35,000,000.

The national organization in the last six years has spent $3,430,000.

Twenty three state branches in the same period spent $11,075,000.

Total $49,505,000.

DONAHEY BUSY

BELLEFONTAINE, Ohio, July 8.—Governor A. V. Donahey is spending his time outside of his official duties at his cottage on Crane Island, Indian Lake, near here. Recently he was interviewed by one of his friends who found him clad in overalls, blue shirt and with a trowel in his hand, busily plastering the cottage.

ROCKEFELLER OBSERVES HIS 87TH BIRTHDAY

John D. in Excellent Spirits While Another Milestone Of Life Passes—Re-publish Longevity Rules.

TARRYTOWN, N. Y., July 8.—The millionaire's birthday today celebrated his 87th birthday.

From the huge Rockefeller estate at Pocantico Hills, came word that "John D." one of the world's wealthiest men, was in great spirits and that he intended to pass a quiet pleasant day with some of the members of his family.

Reading the newspapers was one of the first events on the birthday program. The morning papers all had some mention of the millionaire's birthday and it is to be suspected that he read these with the naive delight which so characterizes him.

Then there were the usual influx of telegrams and letters with congratulations on the successful passing of another milestone of life. Rockefeller is known to read each one carefully and answer in person, those that might require a note of thanks.

Golf was not to be neglected. The customary nine holes on the green hills of Pocantico were on the birthday schedule.

A family dinner and a brief drive were to complete the day. It is known that several shiny dimes have reached the Rockefeller pockets and some of the children near the estate, may be the recipients of the change before sundown.

At eighty-seven Rockefeller is much stronger and happier than he was when he dropped all executive responsibility at 60. In 1899 when he withdrew from the management of his vast interests believed to net his family $500,000,000 a year, he was in poor health.

Editorial writers of the time pointed out that the richest man of the age was unable to buy for his own appetites the finest wines and foodstuffs. He was pictured as sitting down three times a day for the rest of his life to a meal of crackers and milk.

"There is nothing which can bring a smile from the heart to that seamed face," wrote one commentator.

But Rockefeller has confounded such opinions. In 1916 Dr. H. F. Bigger, his physician, published the rules for longevity whereby the oil magnate hoped to reach the age of 100. These were:

- 1—Don't worry
- 2—Don't acquire overweight
- 3—Drink three quarts of water every day
- 4—Exercise daily
- 5—Sleep in fresh air

And by following such simple rules Rockefeller seems well on his way toward the century mark.

MAY DEPORT GEORGE REMUS IS REPORT

ATLANTA, Ga., July 8.—George Remus, Cincinnati bootleg king now serving a year's sentence in the Troy, Ohio jail may be deported, M. A. Coykendall, immigration officer for the Atlanta district, announced today.

Coykendall declared Remus is not a naturalized citizen of the United States and that a deportation hearing probably will be held when Remus is released.

Federal officials here have conferred with Mrs. Imogene Remus, estranged wife of the rum king and announced she would take the lead against her husband in a deportation board is convened.

WASHINGTON, July 8.—The U. S. government today entered New York City's subway strike situation with appointment of a special representative to act as observer and take immediate action in offering the good offices of the labor department, if either strikers or employers ask for mediation.

Thomas J. Williams, experienced strike conciliator was ordered to go at once to New York to see what steps, if any, can be taken by the conciliation division of the labor department toward settlement of the wage differences.

GOVERNMENT WILL NOT OFFER BONDS

WASHINGTON, July 8.—High treasury and debt funding commission officials today categorically denied the possibility that the United States ever would put on the open market any of the $7,000,000,000 in foreign government bonds held under debt settlement agreements or any of the $4,000,000,000 more to be received if the French debt settlement is approved.

Secretary Mellon when told of the charge of Franklin Bouillon, French deputy, an opponent of ratification that Germany might buy the bonds and present them to France for collection at an unfortunate moment, said:

"The world might come to an end, too."

LIGHTNING FATAL

IRONTON, O., July 8.—A bolt of lightning killed Richard Anson, 63, farmer of Lawrence County. He was struck while walking towards his home through a field.

DAYTON WOMAN WILL HEAD EX-PUPILS OF HOME ASSOCIATION

Six Hundred Attend Banquet—Dance Ends Meeting

Mrs. Alice Gheen, Dayton, was elected president of the Ex-Pupils' Association, O. S. and S. O. Home, after spirited balloting, Thursday morning, featuring the closing day of the annual reunion.

Mrs. Nellie Carman Smith, Lancaster, O. was elected first vice president; Albert W. Henderson, Dayton, second vice-president and Mrs. Belle Lytle, Dayton, corresponding secretary.

Mrs. Grace Rhoades, Columbus, recording secretary and Oliver DeVore, Columbus, treasurer, held their positions for life. Executive committee the coming year will be composed of Mrs. Ella Cook, Mrs. Della Licktenburg, both of Zion; Ill. William Kemp, Waynesville, Mrs. Alice Richardson, Worthington, O., all pupils at the Home when it was located in Xenia in the '80's. The president will serve with them on the executive board.

Dr. George H. Lampe, Cincinnati, was unanimously elected president of the association, but withdrew. Two other ballots taken resulted in close votes for opponents.

Business meeting and election of officers was held in the pavilion, at 10 o'clock. Reports of various committees were heard, withing down three times a day for the rest of his life to a meal of crackers and milk.

Business meeting and election of officers was held in the pavilion, at 10 o'clock. Reports of various committees were heard, withing down three times a day for the rest of his life to a meal of crackers and milk.

Six hundred pupils, including about 500 ex-pupils, attended the annual banquet in the dining room, Wednesday night. U. S. Senator Frank B. Willis, Delaware, was the chief speaker.

He gave an informal address, dwelling on the accomplishments of Ohio and the high place the state held throughout the nation. He closed with a tribute to the state work in the Home and the benefits enjoyed by the pupils and ex-pupils.

W. S. Stevens, Homestead, Pa., was toastmaster and gave a short talk. The usual long program of speeches was done away with and a musical program followed the elaborate banquet and two talks.

Dancing followed the banquet. Thursday afternoon was devoted to sports for the Home children, baseball game, band concert by the Home band. Supper will be served at 5 o'clock, slow time, and the grand ball will be held at 8 o'clock, with music by the Harmony Kings, closing the reunion.

HAS FEW TENANTS

JACKSON, Ohio, June 8.—A recent survey made of farm property in Ohio, showed that Jackson County had the lowest per cent of farm tenancy in the state. In this county, nine out of ten families own their farms.

PRESIDENT COOLIDGE CATCHES THREE POUND FISH! EXE CUTIVE EXCITED AS REAL ANGLER

8.—Catching one fish may mean nothing to a great many people but it seems a lot to the President of the United States.

Whether President Coolidge will break through his usual silent reserve to brag about his catch last night to friends is a matter of great discussion about White Pine Camp, the summer white house. For Mr. Coolidge has never seemed so elated over a masterful political victory as he seems over the snaring of a three pound pickerel on a troll line. After taking the unlucky fish for dinner the President rushed out of his cabin to try his luck again. But it was to no avail, despite a fishing trip which lasted far into the night.

Those about the president are predicting considerable fishing this summer. It is not often, those close to the president, point out, that Mr. Cool-

DRAIN DRY DOCK PREPARATORY TO OPENING SUNKEN SUBMARINE

Operations Expected To Release Bodies Of Ill-fated Crew—Expect to Find Every Man Within Steel Hull

By United Press
NAVY YARD, BROOKLYN, N. Y., July 8.—A cluttered tangle of ungainly black pontoons floated on the sluggish waters of No. 4, the world's largest dry dock today.

As pumps slowly removed water from the basin a cobra head of rusted iron, appeared rising foot by foot above the sinking pool.

Below it lay the flooded compartment of the salvaged submarine S-51, freighted with its crew of hero dead, still locked in their steel sheathed tomb.

And from a staff lashed to the periscope of the vessel, the Stars and Stripes, half masted, hung from the submerged hull of the death ship.

Some time during the afternoon, Navy men expected that drainage of the dock would be completed and the opening of the hull began. None could predict how many men would be found. The submarine had carried a crew of six officers and thirty-one enlisted men on its fatal voyage.

Divers had gone into the stepped decks of the dry docks this morning to adjust block under the hull, preparatory to draining the pool and all was in readiness for opening the shell once the water was removed.

Some indication of what may be found when the hull is opened was given today by Commander Edward Ellsberg.

"Every man was at his post and died a hero's death," he said, telling of the divers' glimpses on the sea floor.

The wireless operator was still at his switch. A diver found it impossible to get into the radio room.

With arrest of three alleged ring leaders and seizure of a case of bonded whiskey and five gallons of alcohol, city and county authorities are convinced a large liquor ring with headquarters in Chicago, Ill., has been uncovered, ramifications of which extend to Dayton and Xenia.

Fred Love, 35, Dayton, formerly of Greene County, F. C. Armeody, who represents himself as a Chicago attorney, and Jack Price, also of Chicago, were arrested by a party of city and county authorities one mile north of Yellow Springs on the Springfield Pike Wednesday night.

The case of bonded whiskey and alcohol said to have been found in the large enclosed car in which they were riding, was confiscated. The liquor is reported to have been transported from Dayton.

Love, charged with transporting and possessing liquor and Price and Armeody with possession, each pleaded not guilty before Probate Judge S. C. Wright Thursday morning. Their trials were set for Friday, July 16. The auto was also confiscated by order of the court.

Love was released from the County Jail under $2,400 bond. Bonds of Armeody and Price were fixed at $1,400 each. They were making arrangements for bond Thursday.

U. S. Deputy Marshal Carson M. Pratt, Dayton, was in Xenia Thursday investigating the case and interviewing the suspects.

Deputy Sheriff Baughn said he believed Love was the ring leader and is associated with the alleged bootleg ring which has been bringing liquor into Dayton and Greene County for some time.

NOTE FROM MONROE, MICH., RECEIVED BY MISSING MAN'S WIFE

Wife and Relatives Leave For Detroit On Search

Belief that Clarence Stephenson, 40, Fairground Ave., head bookkeeper for The Eavey Co., wholesale grocers, who disappeared forty-eight hours ago after walking out of the company's office, is alive but probably suffering from a nervous breakdown, was inspired by a letter from Stephenson to his wife enclosed in an envelope addressed to C. E. Wilkin, optometrist, this city, received Wednesday morning.

The letter was postmarked from Monroe, Mich., and came to the family like a ray of hope penetrating the gloomy darkness which had shrouded his mystery since 1:30 p. m. Tuesday when he disappeared at the peak of a severe rain and electrical storm which swept the city.

Stephenson, in the letter, is quoted as saying he was a "nervous wreck" but that he believed he would be all right in a few days. He added that he intended to continue to Detroit, Mich., where relatives live.

Mr. and Mrs. James Andrews, Detroit, Mich., sister and brother-in-law of Mrs. Stephenson had motored to Xenia upon learning of Mr. Stephenson's disappearance, arriving here at 4 a. m. Thursday, after receiving the letter Mr. and Mrs. Andrews accompanied by Mrs. Stephenson and two children left by motor for Detroit Thursday morning.

Inquiries Wednesday disclosed Stephenson had boarded an interurban traction car for Springfield at 2 p. m. Tuesday, half an hour after leaving the company's office. He also inquired of Motorman John Ryan when he could make connections by traction from Springfield.

Further information on the missing bookkeeper's movements Tuesday was produced by M. E. Shoemaker, Goes Station grocer, who was a passenger on the same car with Stephenson and had a short conversation with him concerning the weather. He saw him purchase passage to Springfield and declared his actions were not out of the ordinary.

The letter addressed to Mrs. Stephenson was sent special delivery and arrived Wednesday a

LONG BANDIT HOLDS UP TRAIN

GARY, Ind., July 8.—A negro bandit apparently without assistance held up a train on the Chicago, South Shore and South Bend Electric Railroad shortly before midnight and escaped with approximately $300 collected from passengers.

The negro, described as an exceptionally large man, boarded the train at Gary and hid in the women's compartment until the train reached Aetna. At this point he cornered the motorman and conductor, held them at bay at the point of a revolver and ordered the conductor to search the passengers.

The conductor "collected" about $300 from the "frightened" passengers and handed it to the bandit. The negro leaped off the train and escaped in the darkness.

KILLER WILL MEET DEATH AS PAYMENT

COLUMBUS, O., July 8.—William "Billy" Stark, of Cleveland and Toledo, will be sent into eternity late today or tonight for the murder of Ralph Hoffman, a farmer near Fremont.

The youth's last chance for a reprieve, or even a brief respite was believed gone today.

The state board of clemency which convened in Mansfield to review his appeal, apparently has turned a deaf ear. His efforts to escape the chair by having himself adjudged insane also have failed.

Clark's only eleventh hour hope was the governor but Gov. Donahay has declared he will not intervene unless the clemency board recommends mercy.

A death watch stood guard over the youth's cell this morning as the remaining hours of his life drew to a close. Clark paced the iron cage nervously as the prior chaplain conversed with him in low tones.

JAZZ CARRYING RACE BACK TO CAVEMAN ERA SAYS MUSICIAN

LONDON, July 8.—Jazz music is carrying the present generation back to the instincts of cavemen and savages, Dr. Henry Coward, prominent English composer and musician authority told the United Press in an interview.

Dr. Coward declared that modern dances such as the exaggerated foxtrot and the Charleston, which followed the introduction of jazz as a "fixed standard" of music, have "turned back pages of progress to the drunken revelry or lesser breeds."

"It is not the noise, lack of rhythm or the ugly cleverness of jazz that I object to," Dr. Coward said, "but it is the exploitation of this class of ambitious gaiety which has been injected upon all people as a 'fixed standard' of music for all occasions."

"The jerky rhythms; the hoeting, out-of-tone saxophones; the plonking beats of the banjos and the grotesque howlings and boisterous banging of toys and kitchen utensils is degrading to all artistic sense and possesses atavistic tendencies in carrying civilization back to the first stage of music."

"The antics of bodily movement which have been devised to fit these humdrum sounds can only be compared with the oddity of the dances of the plantation slaves of eighty years ago. Jazz music and jazz dancing is the outgrowth of a degraded taste for art in the better class of people, with the result that the lesser classes saw the acceptance of jazz by people who should know better and felt that they should immediately accept this form of orgy to be 'proper.'"

"The effect of such wild revelries which have followed in the wake of this so-called music, upon the thought, life, action, dress, morals, and speech of the young people of today is difficult to conceive, especially upon a stage of civilization which should be very much above such a plane."

"The sooner we return to the music of our grandfathers, the sooner will we be able to maintain a better standard of art, of morality such as many a parent now wishes for a son or daughter."

Dr. Coward's recent criticisms of modern music has brought him to the fore as a protester against "jazz." He visited the United States with his famous Sheffield Choir of 220 persons in 1908 and again in 1911. During these tours programs were given at Chicago, Detroit, Rochester, N. Y., Columbus, O., Cleveland, Cincinnati, St. Paul and Minneapolis.

AUTO DRIVER, LIKE MUSICIAN, MUST DEVELOP SENSE OF TOUCH

What are the qualifications of an expert driver of an automobile? Skilled mechanics—who teach people to drive cars give some interesting information along the line of certain fine points that distinguish the expert from the ordinary driver.

They say a good driver is one who—

Has "touch" for his car; knows just how quickly to let in his clutch; knows just when to shift gears; presses the accelerator just far enough and at the right time, and handles his ignition switch correctly.

WOULD BARNEY OLDFIELD HAVE MADE A MUSICIAN?

WOULD PADEREWSKI HAVE MADE A GREAT DRIVER?

These are some points for the neophyte motorist to paste in his cap and memorize when he starts out.

Take for instance the sense of "touch," merely one of the fine points known by the good driver, —the man who feels his car as a musician feels his instrument. The good driver, —the one behind whom everybody likes to ride—

COLLEGE ASSIGNED TO RESEARCH WORK

Official notification that the department of research in lumber retailing of Antioch College, had been assigned to make an exhaustive study of odd and short lengths of lumber in an effort to eliminate the annual $200,000,000 waste in the United States, was received Wednesday from Secretary Herbert Hoover.

Research work will be conducted under the direction of the wood utilization committee of the United States of which Secretary Hoover is chairman.

Work at Antioch College is expected to be of unusual interest in lumber circles.

CURFEW WILL RING FOR ROADHOUSES

AKRON, O., July 8.—Summit County roadhouses will be governed by a midnight curfew henceforth, Sheriff Charles Weaver announced today. Sheriff Weaver ordered the new time restrictions as a result of the death of Mrs. Otto Coppage, 24, a mute, who was killed by an automobile after escaping from two abductors.

The tragedy occurred in the Lake Resorts District where road houses according to Weaver have been running "wide open."

Mrs. Coppage was kidnapped after her abductors beat her escort. After her escape she ran to a highway and attempted to stop an automobile. She was run down and killed. Her body has been removed to East Liverpool for burial.

EAST END NEWS

Word received from Mrs. Ethel Johnson, Wilberforce who was called to Hot Springs, Ark., on account of the serious illness of her father reports him still in a critical condition.

YOUNG PEOPLE ARE GUESTS AT SAYRE HOME

One of the most delightful of the informal parties enjoyed by groups of the younger set, was entertained by Messrs. Edward Sayre and Robert Currie at the Sayre home, N. King St., Wednesday evening.

Fifteen couples were guests at the affair. Dancing was the main center of attraction, with music furnished by the Orthophonic. The perfect Summer evening invited groups of the guests to the wide veranda and lawn for occasional periods.

Ice, cake and coffee were served at a late hour. Miss Martha Doyle, Springfield, was the only out-of-town guest at the party.

The Rev. David Powers and Mrs. Julia Mather, spent the week end in Urbana, the guests of Mrs. William Powers.

Mr. and Mrs. B. E. Franklin, East Cleveland, spent the week end and the Fourth with Professor and Mrs. D. M. Barnes, High St., Mrs. Franklin's parents.

Miss Margaret Meredith returned Tuesday to her home in Yellow Springs, after several days visit with Miss Grace Kneisley, Troy, O. A number of informal parties were arranged in her honor during her visit.

Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Anderson, Mr. and Mrs. Carlton Anderson, Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Baxter, and son Dick, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Heaton and family, and the Misses Irene Robinette, Lemma Saunders, Gwen Saunders, Donald Cost and Mrs. Mary Inman, Mr. James Kyle and Mr. Earl Heaton spent the Fourth at Russell's Point.

Mrs. Venice Haynes, Miami, Fla., was the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Street, and family, of near Jasper, over the Fourth.

Mr. George Pope, Whiteman St. is still confined to his home by illness.

The Misses Frances and Rachel Gustin, Springfield, Mo., are visiting their aunt, Mrs. Roy Jones, E. Second St., and other relatives in the county.

Mrs. Lawrence Davis, W. Second St., who received burns to her right hand and arm when a fire-cracker exploded at the home of her sister, Mrs. Albert Sanders, Jamestown, Monday, is seriously ill from effects of the burns. Her hand has become infected and Mrs. Davis is suffering extreme pain.

Miss Betty Virginia Hartsoek, Waynesville, O., is the guest of Mrs. Cora Macy, W. Market St., for the week.

May Be Head of Army Air Service

F. Trubee Davison may become the head of the Army Air Service under the provisions of the new Army air service bill. The office, that of Assistant Secretary of War, is one of the Presidential appointments; President Coolidge is known to be favorably disposed toward Davison who was a member of the Yale Aviation unit before and during the war.

MUSSOLINI ORDERS LAKE PARTIALLY DRAINED TO RECOVER ROMAN TREASURE

ROME, July 8.—Two galleys in which the orgies of the Caesars occurred, lying at the bottom of Lake Nemi, near here, are to be raised according to the plans of Mussolini.

The galleys are full of art treasure, and were the scene of feasts with music and scantily clad dancing girls in the old days.

The Duce had ordered the Minister for Education, Pietro Fedele, to proceed with the scheme for the recovery of the vessels devised by Engineer Malfatti of the Civil Engineering service.

Minister Fedele has called together a commission consisting of Senator Corrado Ricci, Professor Arduino Colasanti, and Professor Roberto Paribene to represent the archeological side of the question, while Engineer Saladini of the Civil Engineers and Engineer Pugliese, director of the naval shipyard at Castellamare di Stabia, will direct the technical work of raising.

The bottom of the Lake of Nemi, which is an ancient crater, reaches a depth of 300 feet in parts. The two galleys which lie embedded in the mud in more than 100 feet of water are known to contain treasure in the way of ornamental bronzes, statuary, and utensils. Two handsome bronzes formerly taken from one of the ships are now in the Rome National Museum.

The project which has been decided upon consists in temporarily lowering the level of the water of the lake by the building of a conduit, which will carry it down into the plain and on to the sea.

This is possible, as Lake Nemi lies in the Alban hills at an elevation of several hundred feet.

The project, which when completed will make Nemi famous as a tourist and archeological center, will require at least two years for its execution, and will entail an expense of several millions of lire, not all of which has yet been provided for.

DAMAGE SUIT FILED SEQUEL TO TRAFFIC ACCIDENT IN XENIA

Curtis Hale, Xenia taxi driver, is named defendant in a suit for $5,125 damages filed in Common Pleas Court by J. J. Turner, this city, who alleges he was seriously injured when struck by an auto driven by Hale as he walked across Main St. at Main and Columbus Sts. December 19, 1925.

Turner alleges he sustained a broken right leg, two ribs were broken and he received other bruises more or less serious which kept him confined to bed four months. He claims to be still disabled and prevented from pursuing his occupation.

Defendant, according to the petition, was driving at the rate of thirty-five miles an hour, going west on Main St. and without sounding a warning of his horn, struck Turner.

Turner claims he was crossing that part of the street assigned to pedestrians. His injuries resulted in medical attention and bills of a physician and nurse amounting to $125, petition recites. An additional $5,000 because of the injuries is sought.

INDEPENDENCE

ON this 150th anniversary of the Declaration of Independence, it would be well if that document could be read throughout the world.

It is the great document of democracy. And today the world needs democracy. The war fought as Americans believed to "make the world safe" for democracy has failed so far. Human freedom has slipped back. In spite of the upsetting of kings and emperors, there has been a revival of autocracy, of new efforts to tyrannize over men. Individualism—the right of each to think and act for himself as long as he respects the rights of others—is menaced as it has not been for generations.

In Russia there is a "radical" tyranny. In Italy there is a "conservative" tyranny. There is government by dictation in half a dozen other European countries. There are tyrannies of individuals, of minorities, of majorities. America is not free from them.

The Declaration of Independence points out the eternal principles of that individualism which means democracy. It maintains the inherent right of all men to equality of opportunity, to equal representation in government, to the kind of government preferred by a majority, to the protection of minorities from abuse of power by majorities.

It implies the right of individuals and groups to their own religious faith, their own scientific faith, their own inner life. It implies tolerance.

It recognizes that if mankind were all made exactly alike, this would be an intolerable world of human insects. It recognizes that while men must work together for common welfare and progress, every man is an individual mind and soul, and the highest function of society is to develop individuality.

Read the Declaration and the Bill of Rights—the first ten amendments to the United States Constitution—and see if this is not true Americanism.

SPORTING BLOOD

THE AMERICAN INDIAN, whatever his faults and defects, was not only a good fighter but a good sport. This latter characteristic is brought out clearly in an almost forgotten incident told by Charles Dickens in his "American Notes."

In a small middle-western town Dickens foregathered with an old settler who had done much negotiating with the Indians on behalf of the government. The settler spoke feelingly of the strong attachment the Indians had for the familiar scenes of their childhood and their burial places. Then he spoke of a recent treaty made with a local tribe whereby it was to move west beyond the Mississippi.

"He had witnessed many such removals," wrote Dickens, "and always with pain, though he knew that they departed for their own good. The question whether this tribe should go or stay had been discussed by them a day or two before in a hut erected for the purpose, the logs of which still lay upon the ground before the inn."

"When the speaking was done, the ayes and noes were ranged on opposite sides, and every male adult voted in his turn. The moment the result was known, the minority—a large one—cheerfully yielded to the rest and withdrew all opposition."

It is a great thing to be able to acquiesce in a decision of the majority and, while not agreeing with them, to be a good sport about it. Sportsmanship should be inherent in this country.

Today's Talk

THE WORLD OF MAKE-BELIEVE

Underneath our dreams are the things we do—and the men and women that we are.

Just bordering—always—this practical world, is that world of Make-believe, through which all the dreams of the artist, the writer, the builder, the thinker, and dreamer is sifted.

We never reach our ideals. We only think about them, reach for them—and run for them. But this is the thing that keeps them alive for us. Of course there are those who believe that they will reach their ideals—and so it is that we have great men and women.

And it is much better to aim for worthy things and plan toward large achievements, even though you do not approach them, than to aim at nothing and get everything that you don't want.

The child knows nothing of the bitterness, the suffering and disappointments of life. Its smiles are bathed in a veritable sea of Make-believe. And it sees all the great things that the old heads worry so much about—and yet without any disturbance and all within a spirit of belief and reality.

Let the child dream! And leave the man or woman alone with his or her dreams.

When Westinghouse went to that unique old man, Commodore Vanderbilt, with his invention for stopping cars by air pressure, Vanderbilt laughed at the chap and showed him the door. Now every train is equipped with those brakes in their most improved manner.

The writer of fiction sees the ways of men and women, then he dreams and leads some god of the imagination to these people of his brain and asks that god to make new clothes for them and put uniqueness to their lives. Then he writes a great story that we all read.

We like to feel that we are in countries which we may never visit, in lives with which we may never associate beyond these Make-believe visits of ours.

WARM DISCUSSION OCCUPIES COUNCIL

Heated discussion over important municipal topics of which the main discussion centered upon the proposed new waterworks plant to be built at a cost of $63,000 if approved by the voters at the November election, featured a stormy session of the Yellow Springs village council Tuesday night.

After verbal battles it was decided to have the necessary resolution for the water works plant drafted for presentation at the next council meeting.

Suggestion that the pay of volunteer firemen be boosted from thirty-five cents to seventy-five cents an hour drew such a verbal barrage it was voted down.

Proposal to provide telephones for three deputy marshals of Yellow Springs was also discussed. The officers are without this means of communication.

Lastly a pair of handcuffs, recently purchased, was on display. Two trunks were arrested last week to which the action of buying handcuffs was attributed.

SEASONABLE PRESERVING RECIPES

Pineapple-Cherry Marmalade: Stone any kind of cherries, sweet or sour, and to one pound of them (measured after stoning) add one-half pound of finely-diced pineapple. Chop these fruits by hand separately. After mixing them together in your preserving kettle, add one pound of granulated sugar and bring to the boiling point. Let simmer till thick, stirring constantly. It is best to use the "jelly test," to ascertain when the mixture is thick enough: raise a little of the hot juice high in the air, in a spoon, and drip it back into the kettle; if two drops form at once at the edge of the spoon, the mixture will "jell" when turned into hot, sterilized jelly glasses. Cover down when cold with melted paraffine wax.

Pineapple-Strawberry Conserve: Into your preserving kettle put two cups of shredded pineapple and water barely to cover, and let cook gently till soft. Then add two cups of ripe strawberries and continue to cook till the strawberries are soft. Now measure the hot fruit mixture and add three-fourths as much sugar as fruit. Return mixture to the preserving kettle and simmer till it falls in heavy drops from the tip of a spoon. Then turn into hot sterilized glasses (that is, glasses which have previously been boiled, empty, in water to cover and firm cover, for fifteen minutes) and when cold and firm cover with melted paraffine wax.

To Make Pectin at Home: Helpful manufacturers have put on the market bottled pectin which the housewife may buy and add to her jellies which do not happen to "jell" firmly. The element which causes a jelly to become firm is a glue-like substance called "pectin," very pronounced in some fruits (apples, currants, quinces, orange and lemons, especially) and almost lacking in some berries and in peaches. Yet peach jelly can be made by stirring a little pectin into peach juice and boiling together with sugar, till the jelling stage is reached. (Directions for use come on the manufacturer's pectin bottles.) This is how pectin can be made at home. Buy thick-skinned oranges and pare off the yellow outside of the rind. The pectin is contained in the white underpart of the rinds, so get every bit of this white under-rind and weigh it. To one pound of it add three quarts of cold water and let stand overnight. Next morning boil it for two hours slowly, then drain through cheese cloth and use. A very little experimenting will teach the housekeeper how much to use with various fruits (testing with small amounts before going ahead on large "batches" of jelly).

Greene County History

COUNTY COMMISSIONERS

Office of county commissioner did not exist in Ohio in 1803, the year in which Greene County was officially established.

Work of commissioners was then carried on by associate judges who set aside a session for transaction of county business.

Board of county commissioners was created February 14, 1804, by an act of Ohio General Assembly. An election was held on the first Monday of April, 1804 and Jacob Smith, James Snoden and John Sterritt presented their certificates of election June 11, 1804. The board held its first session the same day at the home of Peter Borders on Beaver Creek.

As the term of county commissioners at that time was at three years, one member being elected annually, these first commissioners drew lots for rank. Jacob Smith drew for three years, Sterritt for two and Snoden for one. Electors of the county continued to elect a commissioner every year with the state legislature changed the term of county officials in 1906.

It was then the term of commissioner was placed at two years and all three were to be elected at the same time. The act also provided that its provisions would become effective in 1909, thus giving officers an opportunity to finish their terms.

Law has since been changed and all three commissioners are not elected at once.

ADMITS ATTACK

MARION, O., July 8.—William Boyd, alias Robert Predenical, 21, negro, has confessed breaking into the home of T. J. Hill, Caledonia and attacking Hill's sister-in-law, Miss Bertha Kightlinger. Boyd said he entered the home with the intention of looting it. Miss Kightlinger awakened, he said and he struck her. The girl was in a critical condition but is now recovering.

Florenz Zeigfeld, the well-known glorifier of America's girlish charms, has done Broadway a good turn with his summer revue, "No Foolin'," lately known as "The Palm Beach Girl," people who have seen the production are pleased to note ance. Let all office boys take notice: "Please excuse me for not attending today's matinee as I am sick in bed with a bad attack of typhoid fever. However, I will positively be around for tonight's performance."

While I am writing this column today, please forgive me if I take the opportunity to stick out my tongue at W. C. Fields, the alleged comedian, who is letting David Wark Griffith pilot his way into the movies.

There are those who say that Mr. Fields earned his salt in musical comedy but his work in the pictures in which this reviewer saw him was one of the saddest perversions of the comic muse ever in its misfortune to survey. Mr. Fields was forced and studied in his actions instead of being spontaneous, as the comedian must. But then, much of this heaviness must be blamed upon the direction of Mr. Griffith, who continues to ruin good plots with clumsy direction in spite of Will Hays and the Motion Picture Exhibitors' Association. If you are an admirer of Griffith, with hold your epithets until you attempt to recall what he has done besides "Way Down East."

The same convenient source of summer news is responsible for the newest and brightest excuse to be offered by a chorus girl who failed to appear for a matinee performance.

INDIANA STARTING JUDGE WILL OFFICIATE AT FAIR RACES HERE

A. S. Beaulieu, Logansport, Ind., will officiate as starting judge during the harness racing at the Greene County Fair, August 3, 4, 5, and 6, according to an announcement made by Secretary J. Robert Bryson, Wednesday. He comes highly recommended.

Racing program compiled by the speed committee of the Greene County Agricultural Society this year will be governed by the rules of the Harness Horse Association, Secretary Bryson announces.

One of the basic rules of the association is that horses are classified according to the amount of money they win and not by track records they make. This is a departure from other years in Greene County.

Every time a horse wins $500 it is classified in a division two seconds faster than his previous class. Of all horses starting in the 2:24 class, trot or pace, on the mile track his winnings must be $1,000 to reduce his classification two seconds, the secretary says. Races this year, as in former years, will be decided on the three heat plan with every heat a race. Purse will be divided into three equal parts after ten per cent has been set aside for the winner of the race. Heat money will be divided 50, 25, 15, and 10 per cent.

Entrance money will be added to the purse making this year's purses range from $400 to $700. The Greene County Hardware Co. 2:12 pace for a $500 purse and N. N. Hunter free-for-all pace for $500 purse are the leading events scheduled for the three-day meeting. The Greene County Hardware Co. and N. N. Hunter, Jamestown, are guarantors of the purses.

"Xenia has never failed to give its patrons the best racing that can be seen anywhere and the present Harness Horse Association rules should make this year's races surpass all other years," Secretary Bryson says.

AMERICA'S BEST KNOWN GOLFERS START OPEN TOURNAMENT PLAY

SCIOTO COUNTRY CLUB, COLUMBUS, O., July 8.—Shooting a 33, three under par, for the first nine, "Wild Bill" Mehlhorn, the New York pro swept into the lead in the initial play in the National Open Golf finale here today.

Mehlhorn played sensational golf from the start, collecting "birdies" on four holes, par on four and weakening only on the ninth hole which he took in four, one over par.

Joe Turnesa, Elmford, N. Y.; George McLean, Bronxville, N. Y., and Al Espinosa, the Chicago pro are in a three-way tie for second place with thirty-five each, one under par.

COLUMBUS, O., July 8.—America's best known golfing figures today appeared on the newly remodelled course of the Scioto Country Club for the first day of the American Open Tournament.

From 8:45 a. m. until 3:05 p. m., at intervals of five minutes, the stars of the links were scheduled to leave the first tee on their quest of the country's leading golf title which will not be decided until Saturday.

The entry list disclosed the names of 153 golfers, more than 100 of whom were forced to qualify in sectional rounds, and the field was but little reduced by scratches.

Probably never before in the history of American open championships has so many high-ranking professionals and amateurs entered for the three days' play. Bobby Jones, with his recent overseas record topped by the annexation of the British open title, is the favorite. Bobby last year bowed to Willie McFarlane only after a heart-rending playoff in which one hole was the deciding factor and the young Atlantan is determined to win his second American crown.

Other amateurs who will match their skill with professionals include George Von Elm, who tied with Walter Hagen for third place in the British open, Watts Gunn, last year's runner-up in the amateur championship, Roland MacKenzie of Washington and Max Marston.

Joe Turnesa, Elmford, N. Y.; George McLean, Bronxville, N. Y., and Al Espinosa, the Chicago pro are in a three-way tie for second place with thirty-five each, one under par.

Among the professionals are such stars as Walter Hagen, Jim Barnes, Al Watrous, Bobby Cruickshank, Bill Mehlhorn, Willie McFarlane, Leo Deigel, Jock Hutchison, Gene Sarazen, Cyril Walker, Emmet French, Tommy Armour, and Ben Stein—each with a chance to carry off chief honors.

There are few foreigners entered. Archie Compston, the young English pro who was disqualified on the final 72 at St. Anne's-on-the-sea for shooting from out of bounds, is the British hope. Thomas E. Howard and Peter V. O'Hara are entered from Australia, while Canada will be represented by R. Cunningham of Kingston.

All that is tricky in the way of golf architecture is provided at Scioto, which has been reconstructed for the championship.

The course measures 6,738 yards and par is 72, calling for 36 to each nine. There are four holes on which par is three and an equal number where five strokes are required for perfect golf.

So difficult is the course that victory may go to any player who breaks 300 for the 72 holes. Jones won the British open with 291, but Scioto is longer than St. Anne's even if not burdened with so many puzzling short holes.

George Sargent, who won the open in 1909 and is the professional at Scioto, believes it is a fair course, however. There are equal hardships with every club and the player who is particularly strong with his driver will have no advantage on another golfer powerful with his irons or putter.

The first nine holes offer the greatest test. Of these Nos. 2, 3, 6, and 8 call for a display of skill. The second hole is a "hog-backer" that demands a straight drive of at least 200 yards if the rough is to be avoided. A platform green on No. 3, calling for a carefully angled approach is the despair of mediocre golfers. The dog-leg nature of the 550-yard sixth hole may draw as many 6's as 5's even from the best, and the 480-yard eighth, its green sandtrapped on two sides and with water hazards at the front and rear, is nothing more or less than a "wow".

Anticipating as large a gallery as ever gathered for an open tournament, Scioto officials have appointed 18 committees to handle the play, the crowds and the scoring. Ringside seats have been provided for the close ones that end on the 18th and the first tee shots also will be visible to the sitting gallery.

I wish to announce that this ad THIS week has been written by different members of the company. I'm tired of doing this work myself and feel that I should make every effort to catch up with my fishing. I hope you like what they've writ.

Yours truly,
Wm. B. McCallister, Gen. Mgr.

NAILS!

Written by Jack Willett.

Any person in Greene County wishing to obtain a first class nail will do themselves, their family and their children a great favor if they will come in here and talk the question over with us. Those NOT desiring a nail but feel that they should KNOW something about nails can come in and LISTEN while we explain. We have all sorts at all prices. Make this your headquarters for nails.

MOPS!

Written by Beeler of the Gazette.

I have been requested by Mr. Wm. B. McCallister to write an ad on this subject and certainly I feel proud and haughty at the confidence reposed in me on such a mission. I have spent three days trying to find out the real nature of a mop so's I could tell here what I've found but so far nothing has been discovered.

Pitchforks!

Author Unknown

Thousands upon thousands of Americans NEVER use a pitchfork. Other thousands use a pitchfork OCCASIONALLY. There are others who use pitchforks regularly and it is to THESE that we appeal. Our pitchforks are house broke, sharp-witted and economical, requiring only a minimum of attention from the family. We have such for sale here.

SPADES

Written by Beal.

A Spade is an instrument made use of by many people for hole digging. The ones we have here are made of steel and wood, are ornamental, and if kept properly lubricated and tuned up are guaranteed for 9 years. No home should be without a spade. Ask me for specifications!

COW EASE!

Written by Harry Sutton

Cow Ease is the Service Dept. of a Dairy. When used on a cow it makes the cow calm and peaceful, causing the cow to deliver from 15 to 40 times MORE milk than it would otherwise. I do not vouch for these figures as I am in the automobile business.

LANTERNS!

Written by Hutch

This is a subject that should NOT be taken lightly. There are many, many folks who make light of lanterns approaching the matter in a spirit of levity. This is wrong, as you readily will see after you have talked this matter over with us. We have several terms which are real bar-trade-ins" or used lanterns. Also new 1927 models just in.

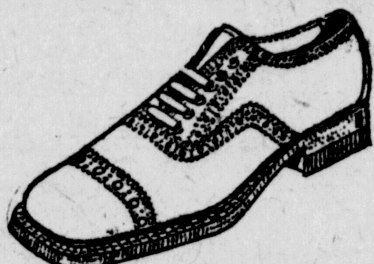

FLY NETS!

Written by Bernard Sutton.

The Studebakers, Overlands and Willys-Nites I sell here do NOT need fly nets. There ARE no flies on these cars at ALL! McCallister requested me to write a poem or an ad on this subject but I have found from experience that NO one can write poetry except during the early spring months A fly net, however MAY be at right and I hope you buy some

MACK TAKES ANOTHER DRINK OF ALLEGED CIDER AND COMPOUNDS BED TIME YARN

By MACK SAUER

I have quite a surprise for you. I have been thinking about what this old world will be like fifty years from now. You will be surprised, of course, to learn that I can think.

Penetrating fifty years into the future, I see silk costing $30 per yard, but dresses a little cheaper. This is explained by the fact that it will require only a square foot of silk to make a dress then, whereas now nearly a square yard is needed for making the average gown.

In 1976 it will be difficult to determine whether a lady is carrying a dress or a handkerchief in her hand, as the two will be about alike in size. The flapper two-score-and-ten years hence will be able to take enough clothes for a two weeks' vacation in the average hand bag of today. Trunks will be the size of the 1926 shoe boxes.

The idea of brotherly love as taught by the luncheon clubs of today will not spread to any great extent, but, due to the air travel, it will not be at all uncommon for a Xenia resident to have a perfect stranger drop in on him at any time, day or night.

I find there will be no coal to burn and that folks will keep warm by using canned heat, which they will can in the summer as they do cherries and strawberries. Cooking will be done by electricity and winter clothing will be equipped with electric warming pads.

In the professional world there will be many new specialists spring up. For instance, wherever there is a city, with two or three orchestras in its midst, there will be a filling station for bass drums.

Then there will be typewriter specialists. Not the typewriter specialists of today, but specialists who will work on only certain parts of the typewriter. There will be the expert who will work only on the letter "M." Another will be a specialist on the "Q. T." etc.

Fifty years hence, the United States will be mobilizing troops and supplies and getting things in readiness for a war with Chicago, which city will be held by robbers, thieves and criminals of every kind. Newspapers will rush war correspondents there.

By 1976 the idea that Columbus discovered America will be laughed at, and the story of Rip Van Winkle will be doubted. No one will believe that Benjamin Franklin wrote Peck's Bad Boy and bright young school boys will scoff at the idea that "an apple a day keeps the doctor away."

What of Congress? Congress will be debating the question of prohibiting the building of subways in our cities, because of their undermining our youth. The luncheon clubs of the world will succeed in teaching the public to think the purpose of the vulcanizing business is service, but those engaged in the work will charge for their services just the same.

Newspapers will print photos of married couples who live together five years or more. Each county in Ohio will be entitled to a divorce judge for every 500 inhabitants, and divorce court will work two shifts of twelve hours each daily, in order to take care of the divorce cases. There will be no barber shops, as women will be bald and men will shave and cut their own.

The expression "He Has Gone to Heaven" will be very common, meaning that a certain person has gone to his work in the sky, whether it be selling tickets at an airline station, or piloting a transport above the clouds.

In the medical world great discoveries will have been made. In addition to the ailments now attributed to defective teeth, we will find broken ankles, measles, dandruff, bunions and toothache also traced to defective molars.

Children will receive no education, as there will be no one bright enough to teach them anything. It will be a dumb old world. And everyone will be up in the air most of the time.

WOMAN INJURED IN ACCIDENT BETTER

Condition of Mrs. Josephine Turnbull, 86, this city, in Espey Hospital with a compound fracture of her right arm, torn scalp and minor bruises, sustained when the auto in which she and two others were riding, collided with a car driven by Miss Gladys Shadrach, deputy county recorder, last Sunday noon, was reported greatly improved Thursday.

Attaches of the hospital declared Mrs. Turnbull has been able to walk around for a time but that it is uncertain whether she will be removed from the hospital.

Crash occurred at King and Union Sts. Mrs. Turnbull's daughter, Mrs. H. C. Armstrong, and also her grand daughter, Miss Josephine Armstrong, occupied the auto, and with Miss Shadrach, were slightly bruised.

MRS. JANE STARBUCK CALLED BY DEATH

Mrs. Jane A. Starbuck, 75, Port William, died at the hospital of Dr. R. L. Haines, Jamestown, Tuesday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock. She had been under Dr. Haines' care for dropsy and heart trouble, from which she had suffered some time and which caused her death.

Surviving are four children, Roy, Sabina, Mrs. Russell Walker, Dayton; Mrs. E. C. Smith, West Alexandria; Earl Waukegan, Ill.; and one sister, residing in Indiana. Mr. Starbuck preceded her in death a number of years ago.

Funeral services were held at the home in Port William Thursday.

It Melts Freckles Away In 4 Days

Or Your Money Back

Sayre's Drug Store was one of the first to learn that a clever chemist had at last discovered a real freckle remover—one that dissolves the brown pigment so that freckles actually melt away. And when the unsightly spots have all gone what a difference in the texture of the skin—as soft as the finest velvet and clear and clean and youthful looking.

This new discovery is a cream and is called Flyte. It is easy to apply and never stains. Sayre's Drug Store and every forward-looking druggist sells it and if it fails the purchase price will be returned—Ask for a jar of Flyte. —Adv.

END BUNION PAIN FOREVER

No Need to Suffer Another Day Those Agonizing, Torturing Pains

There is one simple yet inexpensive way to reduce inflamed, swollen toe joints and get them down to normal and that is to apply Moone's Emerald Oil night and morning and people who suffer from such enlargements would be wise to reduce them before they reach a more or less chronic stage.

Ask Sayre's Drug Store or any first class druggist for an original two-ounce bottle of Moone's Emerald Oil (full strength) and refuse to accept anything in its place. It is such a highly concentrated preparation that two ounces last a long time and furthermore if this wonderful discovery does not give you complete satisfaction you can have your money refunded.

Special note: People who want to reduce swollen or varicose veins should get a bottle of Emerald Oil at once. Applied night and morning as directed they will quickly notice an improvement which will continue until the veins and bunched are reduced to normal. —Adv.

The GILDED ROSE

by May Christie

LEADING CHARACTERS IN THE STORY:

ROSILYN PAGE, the hard-worked daughter of a Long Island innkeeper, finds herself on his death, heiress of a huge fortune. She is deeply in love with...

LANDIS RIDGEWAY, a charming young fellow in financial difficulties, who visited the inn regularly for ten years and was always kind to the lonely girl. His heart has been broken by the faithlessness of...

LYDIA HARBROOK, beautiful and utterly heartless woman of the world who is planning to marry...

STEVIE VAN VORST, a wealthy old roue, although she is fond of Landis.

MRS. FLORENCE RIDGEWAY, Landis' mother, fearing poverty invites Rosilyn to visit her and her son, and induces Landis to marry Rosilyn, although he loathes himself for taking her advice. Immediately after the ceremony, Rosilyn overhears gossip in which she learns that Landis has married her for her money—she hears herself spoken of as the Gilded Rose. Heartbroken, she prepares to leave on her wedding journey.

Lydia Harbrook meanwhile is in Paris, revelling in a glorious spring day.

CHAPTER 14

Thoughts of Landis

THE maid moved dexterously about the apartment. Wherever she went, self-centered Lydia—who none the less had her own quota of that magic and commanding quality known as "charm"—obtained excellent service. At times absurdly generous, at other times abominably bad-tempered and capricious and exacting, she yet contrived, in her own selfish, headless way, to weave her spell over those who worked for her, so that they accorded her a measure of affection that—though oddly mixed with irritation and resentment—yet persisted.

"The Vicomte is in love with madame," murmured Toine, helping her mistress to dress. "He is so young and handsome—"

"And as poor as a church mouse" supplemented Lydia, laughing. "No thanks, not for me, my child! Of course I'd love to have the title—I'd make a charming Vicomtesse—but neither of us have a bean! Just the same, I love to tease that stuck up old haridan of a mother of his, by cantering in the Bois on Sunday mornings with her darling son! She knows I haven't got a dowry, and she's terrified I'll grab him!"

Toine sighed sympathetically. "Here in France it is difficult to marry if one has no dowry. And the shortage of young men—" she flung her hands out in expressive gesture.

Lydia's lip curled. This worship of the male she could not understand.

"Oh, rubbish! I could have ten husbands tomorrow, if I wanted them."

"And the handsomest and the one I'd choose if I were Madame," announced the French girl unexpectedly, "is the tall, dark young man from New York with the oh! so captivating smile, who was here in Paris last summer, and always Madame's devoted cavalier! I can not say the name right—it was Reege—Reege—"

"Landis Ridgeway," Lydia's face was suffused with sudden color. "Yes, he's good looking, I grant you. But as hard up as I am myself. I'm not keen on bread and cheese and kisses. I prefer champagne and caviar." Her laugh rang out but the sharp ears of Toine caught the false note in that laughter.

The phone bell tinkled. The maid went to answer it. Her face changed, stiffened, as she listened. She turned towards her mistress.

"Mr. Van Vorst desires to speak with Madame."

Lydia made a little "moue" as she darted to the instrument. Tire-some that he had called up just now of all times. Such an enchanted Sunday morning of spring sunshine, and young leaves, and soft, balmy air! Youth! Romance! Happiness! They all called to her—

And now Van Vorst was going to spoil it all!

But her voice was cooling as she murmured into the telephone.

"That you, dear? Isn't it wonderful to hear your voice! So sorry I've a tiresome engagement for this morning, but I could lunch with you at the Ritz, or at Paillard's at half past one. What's that? Lunchchamps this afternoon? Would suit me splendidly! I've no decent clothes to wear—but you won't mind? What's that? I always look lovely in any old rags? You say deceiver! Little do you know—Oh, I'll come—but I haven't a bean to put on the horses! You'll see to that? How awfully kind of you! And we'll go to the Pre Catelan for tea? How charming! What's that you say? You've been taking dancing lessons to be up with me? You say creature! Then we ought to dine at the Cafe de Paris tonight and you can practice the new steps! Yes they cook frogs' legs better there than anywhere. I'll say 'au revoir' now. Don't forget—the Ritz at half past one."

She replaced the receiver on its hook, turning to her maid. Her lovely face had a comical ruefulness upon it.

"Good Lord! Toine, isn't it too awful? The man's been taking dancing lessons. Think of his tummy and of his weight upon my toes!"

Toine's lips were pursed into a disapproving line.

"His millions weigh still heavier," she said sententiously. "They will give Madame fortune."

Lydia burst out laughing. "Quite epigrammatic! Your head's screwed on all right, Toine!"

ette!" She caught up her riding crop and a pair of heavy gauntlets. "I mustn't keep the Vicomte waiting. Don't forget to lay out the three-piece Premier model—beige one with the cloak edged with sable I'll be back to change at one o'clock. Have everything ready."

And away she went, immaculately smart in her riding clothes.

It was indeed a heavenly Sunday morning. As Lydia and her Vicomte rode up the Champs Elysees that was gay with gorgeous cars and young, adorable green leaves and new spring clothes and sunshine, she forgore her youthful escort and old Van Vorst and her mind reverted uncontrollably to one Landis Ridgeway who was faraway but—she was sure—definitely with her in spirit at this moment.

And he had loved her through it all.

Dear, handsome Landis! She had been a beast to him these many many times.

And he had loved her through it all.

She had enjoyed their many 'scenes' together. How he had giggled on the hook in futile effort to escape her potent charm.

How useless were these writhings! He was hers, hers—and all ways would be hers—no matter if she married the Van Vorst millions tomorrow!

She smiled to herself at the memory of the desperate interview the two of them had had down at the lonely marshland inn. It had added pliancy to the occasion and the necessary spice of danger, that Van Vorst himself—unknowing of her nearness—had been sleeping in the inn that night! What would he say if he had known? Had he any idea of the feeling that she had for Landis? Lydia's histrionic sense was highly developed and even here in Paris she could visualize the scene.

There would be many more such scenes in her young life, she told herself. They fed her vanity. They gave her such a sense of power.

But never, never would she let Landis Ridgeway stray from his allegiance to her. Married to old Van Vorst, Landis would be doubly hers, because millions of money would be backing her. She would tangle Landis ever more and more securely in these millions, so that extrication—(here she gave a complacent smile at the very thought that he might wish to escape! how too absurd it was!)—so that extrication would be quite impossible.

At the pace he was going, no chance that Van Vorst would linger long on earth. His constitution was already undermined by gourmandizing and excesses. To doctors' warnings he paid little heed.

The obvious thing to do was to marry him while the sun shone, see that the settlements were all in order, keep out of his orbit as much as possible, enjoy herself with Landis and other fascinating swains and patiently await a rich young widowhood!

Such power as would be hers, Riches and power and homage! Tomorrow: Just Like An Overstuffed Bullfrog.

TAXICAB METER
FURNISHES MUSIC

EAST LIVERPOOL, Ohio, July 8—Miss Dorothy Allison, Wilton, W. Va., school teacher and Truman C. Greenwalt, East Liverpool, were made man and wife in a taxi cab wedding.

Because they obtained their license in Cuyahoga, W. Va., they could not marry in Ohio. So they hired a cab, got two witnesses and the Rev. John F. Dimitt of the Methodist Episcopal Church here, and drove across the Ohio River Bridge to Newell, W. Va. The taxi-motor played the only wedding march.

National Open Golf Tournament Starts

FAVOR BOBBY JONES FOR CHAMPIONSHIP AS PLAYERS TEE OFF

Columbus Is "Golf Crazy"
As Meet Gets Under Way

SCIOTO COUNTRY CLUB, COLUMBUS, O., July 8.—More than one "golf widow" will wonder where her wandering spouse is tonight.

More than one flickering incandescent will burn in the window to guide the golfer to his home.

For not since the day when Red Grange made his last appearance here as a college football player has this town been so wrought up over a sporting event and this event, so-called was the national open golf tournament which began today.

Everybody in the town from the hotel bootblack to the warden of the penitentiary was golf crazy and to judge from the hordes of golf knickers and "loud speaking" socks and sweaters, very evident on the highways and byways of this metropolis, anybody who is anybody is fiercely and vitally interested in the outcome of the tournament.

Who is going to win this year's classic? That is the question every one was asking. King Willie McFarlane, champion last year and who can be said to qualify in questions of this kind, his answer was:

"I think the fellow who beats Bobby Jones will capture first place."

Willie is a bit modest. Among seasoned observers, McFarlane has a bright chance to repeat his 1925 honors as hard as that achievement is.

And talking about the Jones', Bobby's whole family is here to wish him well and success. Incidentally about half the city of Atlanta also came here to cheer their hero on. Bobby's dad, when questioned about the outcome remarked:

"All of the boys who played in the British open built up their games for that event and naturally are past the peak now. Bobby and the other boys who went over will have to be super-golfs to come right back in this battle."

Among the more famous of the visitors is Glenna Collett, the young national woman's champion for several years. A bookmaker from Boston whose odds on the players might be taken as a criterion of expert and careful judgment, makes these odds on the stars: Bobby Jones, 4 to 1; Hagen, 5 to 1; McDonald, Smith, 6 to 1; Leo Diegel, 8 to 1; Willie McFarlane, 10 to 1; Al Watrous, 10 to 1; Johnny Farrell, 12 to 1; Jim Barnes, 12 to 1; Gene Sarazen, 12 to 1.

ATTORNEY ARGUES FOR CONVICTION

CHICAGO, July 8.—Having been a bootlegger for three years, Martin Durkin, on trial for killing Edwin C. Shanahan, Federal Agent, should have expected to be pursued by the police, Michael Romano, assistant states attorney declared today in resuming his closing argument to the jury.

In his defense, Durkin claimed he was unaware Shanahan was a federal agent, when he shot him. He testified that he believed him to be a bandit.

"Durkin knew in that garage where the shooting took place," Romano said, "that the only thing that could happen to him was the temporary restraint of his person."

Romano argued that the shooting of Shanahan was indicative of Durkin's desire to retain his liberty "at any cost."

The young prosecutor was expected to conclude his argument shortly before noon. He will be followed by assistant defense counsel Libonati.

The largest crowd since the case began, sought admission to the courtroom. A line of persons waiting to get in stood twelve abreast for nearly a block. No standing was permitted in the chamber. Mrs. Durkin, mother of the defendant was in court for the first time in three days.

UPHOLD CONVICTION

GALLIPOLIS, O., July 8.—A decision of the court appeals here, brought John Bryant, negro, sentenced to die September 2, in connection with the murder of James McCumber of Pomeroy, a step nearer the electric chair.

The court held it could find no error in his previous trial and that a proper verdict had been rendered.

MISSING XENIAN

CLARENCE STEPHENSON

A letter from Monroe, Mich., received Thursday morning, partially solved the mysterious disappearance of Clarence Stephenson, 40, Fairground Ave., bookkeeper for The Eavey Co., missing since Tuesday afternoon. The letter, written by Stephenson, was addressed to his friend, C. E. Wilkin, optometrist, and contained an enclosure for Mrs. Stephenson. Its writing is said to indicate Stephenson was in a highly nervous state when the note was penned. Although brief, the family said the letter indicated Stephenson was a "nervous wreck" but would be "all right in a few days." Because it intimated he would go to Detroit, Mich., Mrs. Stephenson, her two children and her sister, and brother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. James Andrews, Detroit, Mich., left for Detroit by motor Thursday morning.

DEMOCRATIC DRIVE WILL BE LAUNCHED TO ASSIST WILSON

Defeat of Vare and Saloon League To Be Object

WASHINGTON, July 8.—A Democratic drive to defeat William S. Vare, Republican senatorial nominee in Pennsylvania and a prolonged revolt against the power of the Anti-Saloon League are to be the immediate effects of disclosure by the senate primary investigating committee in its month's inquiry just concluded.

Senate leaders conferred before adjournment, the United Press learned today about the advisability of serving formal notice that Vare would not be seated but this plan was rejected and it was decided to let the November election take its course.

"I went to the leaders and told them it would be heartless to let Vare go through his campaign and that the senate ought to tell him now that he won't be seated," a Democratic leader said. "I thought it was only fair to him that he should know now how the senate feels about it, before he spends more time and money."

"The answer I got from them was 'Celeste enter—let the buyers beware.'"

Some Democratic leaders believe this is the bent course and are preparing to throw as much support into Pennsylvania to aid the candidacy of William B. Wilson, Democratic senatorial nominee as in any other state this fall.

The attack on the Anti-Saloon League will be led from platforms throughout the country by Senator Reed, Democrat, Missouri, wet on the basis of evidence, as chairman of the committee, brought out showing.

The pre-prohibition investment of the League was $35,000,000. The national organization in the last six years has spent $3,430,000. Twenty three state branches in the same period spent $11,075,000. Total $49,505,000.

SENATOR WILLS SPEAKS

ROCKEFELLER OBSERVES HIS 87TH BIRTHDAY

John D. in Excellent Spirits While Another Milestone Of Life Passes—Re-publish Longevity Rules.

TARRYTOWN, N. Y., July 8.—John D. Rockefeller today celebrated his 87th birthday.

From the huge Rockefeller estate at Pocantico Hills, came word that "John D." one of the world's wealthiest men, was in great spirits and that he intended to pass a quiet pleasant day with some of the members of his family.

Reading the newspapers was one of the first events on the birthday program. The morning papers all had some mention of the millionaire's birthday and it is to be suspected that he read these with the naive delight which so characterizes him.

Then there were the usual influx of telegrams and letters with congratulations on the successful passing of another milestone of life. Rockefeller is known to read each one carefully and answer in person, those that might require a note of thanks.

Golf was not to be neglected. The customary nine holes on the green hills of Pocantico were on the birthday schedule.

A family dinner and a brief drive were to complete the day. It is known that several shiny dimes have reached the Rockefeller pockets and some of the children near the estate, may be the recipients of the change before sundown.

At eighty-seven Rockefeller is much stronger and happier than he was when he dropped all executive responsibility at 60. In 1899 when he withdrew from the management of his vast interests believed to net his family $500,000,000 a year, he was in poor health.

Editorial writers of the time pointed out that the richest man of the age was unable to buy for his own appetites the finest wines and foodstuffs. He was pictured as sitting down three times a day for the rest of his life to a meal of crackers and milk.

"There is nothing which can bring a smile from the heart to that seamed face," wrote one commentator.

But Rockefeller has confounded such opinions. In 1916 Dr. H. P. Bigger, his physician, published the rules for longevity whereby the oil magnate hoped to reach the age of 100. These were:

- 1—Don't worry
 - 2—Don't acquire overweight
 - 3—Drink three quarts of water every day
 - 4—Exercise daily
 - 5—Sleep in fresh air
- And by following such simple rules Rockefeller seems well on his way toward the century mark.

MAY DEPORT GEORGE REMUS IS REPORT

ATLANTA, Ga., July 8.—George Remus, Cincinnati bootleg king now serving a year's sentence in the Troy, Ohio jail may be deported, M. A. Coykendall, immigration officer for the Atlanta district, announced today.

Coykendall declared Remus is not a naturalized citizen of the United States and that a deportation hearing probably will be held when Remus is released.

Federal officials here have conferred with Mrs. Imogene Remus, estranged wife of the rum king and announced she would take the lead against her husband if a deportation board is convened.

GRAND JURY PROBES M'PHERSON STORY

LOS ANGELES, July 8.—The Los Angeles County grand jury convened in special session today to hear Almee Semple McPherson's story of her kidnapping and imprisonment in Mexico.

The evangelist was the first witness called. Her testimony was expected to last through the day. She was to repeat her story in detail from the time she disappeared at the Beach on May 18 until her sensational "return to life" in August, Priezt, Mexico, June 23.

Whether President Coolidge will break through his usual silent reserve to great about his catch last night to friends is a matter of great discussion about White Pine Camp, the summer white house. For Mr. Coolidge has never seemed so elated over a masterful political victory as he seems over the snaring of a three pound pickerel on a troll line.

After taking the unlucky fish for dinner the President rushed out of his cabin to try his luck again. But it was to no avail, despite a fishing trip which lasted far into the night.

Those about the president are predicting considerable fishing this summer. It is not often, those close to the president, point out, that Mr. Cool-

DAYTON WOMAN WILL HEAD EX-PUPILS OF HOME ASSOCIATION

Six Hundred Attend Banquet—Dance Ends Meeting

Mrs. Alice Gheen Dayton, was elected president of the Ex-Pupils' Association, O. S. and S. O. Home, after spirited balloting, Thursday morning, featuring the closing day of the annual reunion.

Mrs. Nellie Carman Smith, Lancaster, O. was elected first vice president; Albert W. Henderson, Dayton, second vice-president and Mrs. Belle Lytle, Dayton, corresponding secretary.

Mrs. Grace Rhoades, Columbus, recording secretary and Oliver DeVore, Columbus, treasurer, held their positions for life. Executive committee the coming year will be composed of Mrs. Ella Cook, Mrs. Della Licktenburg, both of Zion; H. L. William Kemp, Waynesville; Mrs. Alice Richardson, Worthington, O., all pupils at the Home when it was located in Xenia in the '80s.

The president will serve with them on the executive board. Dr. George H. Lampe, Cincinnati, was unanimously elected president of the association, but withdrew.

Two other ballots taken resulted in close votes for opponents. Business meeting and election of officers was held in the pavilion, at 10 o'clock. Reports of various committees were heard, with Mrs. Anna Noble Garver, president of the association the past year, presiding. Report of the resolution committee included resolutions thanking Col. and Mrs. T. F. Andrews, heads of the Home for their cooperation; a vote of approval to Dr. A. C. Messenger, acting resident physician, and endorsing him for the permanent post; and voicing a recommendation for the reappointment of D. Q. Morrow, Hillsboro, whose term on the board of trustees expires soon. Twenty-five dollars was voted by the Association to the fund to purchase a radio for the Home hospital, requested by Dr. Messenger.

Six hundred pupils, including about 500 ex-pupils, attended the annual banquet in the dining room, Wednesday night. U. S. Senator Frank B. Willis, Delaware, was the chief speaker.

He gave an informal address, dwelling on the accomplishments of Ohio and the high place the state held throughout the nation. He closed with a tribute to the state work in the Home and the benefits enjoyed by the pupils and ex-pupils.

W. S. Stevens, Homestead, Pa., was toastmaster and gave a short talk. The usual long program of speeches was done away with and a musical program followed the elaborate banquet and two talks.

Dancing followed the banquet. Thursday afternoon was devoted to sports for the Home children, baseball game, band concert by the Home band. Supper will be served at 5 o'clock, slow time, and the grand ball will be held at 8 o'clock, with music by the Harmony Kings, closing the reunion.

HAS FEW TENANTS

JACKSON, Ohio, June 8.—A recent survey made of farm property in Ohio, showed that Jackson County had the lowest per cent of farm tenancy in the state. In this county, nine out of ten families own their farms.

SUSPEND POLICE

TOLEDO, O., July 8.—Other members of the Toledo police department may be suspended, Police Chief Jennings announced today following the suspension of three patrolmen on charges of drunkenness. The three officers were found drunk on their beats, Jennings said.

VETERAN MARRIES

SANDUSKY, O., July 8.—Thaddeus Burbank, 84 year old Civil War veteran, and his 42 year old bride, arrived here and visited friends at the Soldiers' Home to whom they announced they would spend their honeymoon here and at Cedar Point.

TWO INJURED WHEN BUILDINGS BURN

CLEVELAND, July 8.—Two persons were injured and twenty were carried out of a burning building in two fires here today.

In one of the blazes, Adam H. Lintz, Lakewood, former secretary of the Cleveland Safety Council was seriously burned about the hands and face when a spark from his radio set ignited a can of varnish remover. His wife was slightly burned while attempting to extinguish the blaze.

Smoke from another fire in the basement of the Beach Cleaning Co., here trapped three families, twenty in all, on the second floor. Firemen carried them to safety.

WORKMAN KILLED

NEWCOMERTOWN, Pa., July 8.—An iron ring falling from a crane in the James B. Clay and Sons Pipe Works here caused the death of Frank King, 62, a workman.

DRAIN DRY DOCK PREPARATORY TO OPENING SUNKEN SUBMARINE

Operations Expected To Release Bodies Of Ill-fated Crew—Expect To Find Every Man Within Steel Hull

By United Press
NAVY YARD, BROOKLYN, N. Y., July 8.—A cluttered tangle of ungainly black pontoons floated on the sluggish waters of No. 4, the world's largest dry dock today.

As pumps slowly removed water from the basin a cobra head of rusted iron, appeared rising foot by foot above the sinking pool.

Below it lay the flooded compartment of the salvaged submarine S-51, freighted with its crew of hero dead, still locked in their steel sheathed tomb.

And from a staff lashed to the periscope of the vessel, the Stars and Stripes, half masted, hung from the submerged hull of the death ship.

Some time during the afternoon, Navy men expected that drainage of the dock would be completed and the opening of the hull began. None could predict how many men would be found. The submarine had carried a crew of six officers and thirty-one enlisted men on its fatal voyage.

Divers had gone into the stepped decks of the dry docks this morning to adjust block under the hull, preparatory to draining the pool and all was in readiness for opening the shell once the water was removed.

Some indication of what may be found when the hull is opened was given today by Commander Edward Ellsberg.

"Every man was at his post and died a hero's death," he said, telling of the divers' glimpses on the sea floor.

The wireless operator was still at his switch. A diver found it impossible to get into the radio room.

ARRESTS MAY CLEAR LARGE LIQUOR RING OFFICERS BELIEVE

Raiders Confiscate Whiskey and Take Three Captive

With arrest of three alleged ring leaders and seizure of a case of bonded whiskey and five gallons of alcohol, city and county authorities are convinced a large liquor ring with headquarters in Chicago, Ill., has been uncovered, ramifications of which extend to Dayton and Xenia.

Fred Love, 35, Dayton, formerly of Greene County, F. C. Armody, who represents himself as a Chicago attorney, and Jack Price, also of Chicago, were arrested by a party of city and county authorities one mile north of Yellow Springs on the Springfield Pike Wednesday night.

The case of bonded whiskey and alcohol said to have been found in the large enclosed car in which they were riding, was confiscated. The liquor is reported to have been transported from Dayton.

Led by Deputy Sheriff John Baughn the arrests were made by Deputy Sheriffs George Spencer and Delver Belden, Constable Ed Wilkins and Patrolmen Charles Thompson, Ed Craig and Fred Jones.

Love, charged with transporting and possessing liquor and Price and Armody with possession, each pleaded not guilty before Probate Judge S. C. Wright Thursday morning. Their trials were set for Friday, July 16. The auto was also confiscated by order of the court.

Love was released from the County Jail under $2,400 bond. Bonds of Armody and Price were fixed at $1,400 each. They were making arrangements for bond Thursday.

U. S. Deputy Marshal Carson M. Pratt, Dayton, was in Xenia Thursday investigating the case and interviewing the suspects.

Deputy Sheriff Baughn said he believed Love was the ring leader and is associated with the alleged bootleg ring which has been bringing liquor into Dayton and Greene County for some time.

PRESIDENT COOLIDGE CATCHES THREE POUND FISH! EXECUTIVE EXCITED AS REAL ANGLER

8.—Catching one fish may mean nothing to a great many people but it seems a lot to the President of the United States.

Whether President Coolidge will break through his usual silent reserve to great about his catch last night to friends is a matter of great discussion about White Pine Camp, the summer white house. For Mr. Coolidge has never seemed so elated over a masterful political victory as he seems over the snaring of a three pound pickerel on a troll line.

After taking the unlucky fish for dinner the President rushed out of his cabin to try his luck again. But it was to no avail, despite a fishing trip which lasted far into the night.

Those about the president are predicting considerable fishing this summer. It is not often, those close to the president, point out, that Mr. Coolidge finds a recreation which he enjoys and the president is as excited as a school boy over the catch last night. Further, they say, there is little else for the President to do here. The seclusion of the camp and the thickness of the woods prevents him from doing much walking.

Motoring is out of the question because of rough roads; callers will be infrequent because of the distance of the camp from the outside world.

NOTE FROM MONROE, MICH., RECEIVED BY MISSING MAN'S WIFE

Wife and Relatives Leave For Detroit On Search

Belief that Clarence Stephenson, 40, Fairground Ave., head bookkeeper for The Eavey Co., wholesale grocers, who disappeared forty-eight hours ago after walking out of the company's office, is alive but probably suffering from a nervous breakdown, was inspired by a letter from Stephenson to his wife enclosed in an envelope addressed to C. E. Wilkin, optometrist, this city, received Wednesday morning.

The letter was postmarked from Monroe, Mich., and came to the family like a ray of hope penetrating the gloomy darkness which had shrouded his mystery since 1:30 p. m. Tuesday when he disappeared at the peak of a severe rain and electrical storm which swept the city.

Stephenson, in the letter, is quoted as saying he was a "nervous wreck" but that he believed he "would be all right in a few days." He added that he intended to continue to Detroit, Mich., where relatives live.

Mr. and Mrs. James Andrews, Detroit, Mich., sister and brother-in-law of Mrs. Stephenson had motored to Xenia upon learning of Mr. Stephenson's disappearance, arriving here at 4 a. m. Thursday, after receiving the letter Mr. and Mrs. Andrews accompanied by Mrs. Stephenson and two children left by motor for Detroit Thursday morning.

Inquiries Wednesday disclosed Stephenson had boarded an interurban traction car for Springfield at 2 p. m. Tuesday, half an hour after leaving the company's office. He also inquired of Motorman John Ryan, which could make connections by traction from Springfield.

Further information on the missing bookkeeper's movements Tuesday was produced by M. E. Shoemaker, Goes Station grocer, who was a passenger on the same car with Stephenson and had a short conversation with him concerning the weather. He saw him purchase passage to Springfield and declared his actions were not out of the ordinary.

The letter addressed to Mrs. Stephenson was sent special delivery and arrived Wednesday at

Offered "Bribe"

William B. Wilson, former Secretary of Labor, was offered a Federal job if he would quit the race for the Democratic Senatorial nomination, he told the Senate committee investigating the Pennsylvania primary.

SOFT DRINK DEALERS CAUGHT BY POLICE

CLEVELAND, O., July 8.—A mammoth Cleveland "soft drink" concern, may collapse as the result of the arrest of two employees of the Henry Gehrig company, Federal District Attorney Bernstein announced today.

Charged with violating the prohibition law, E. C. Genereaux, sales manager and Paul E. White, purchasing agent were arrested by federal agents Wednesday. They were released on bond.

The firm is alleged to have done a $500,000 business in all parts of the country by selling fruit juices and near beer which could be converted into intoxicants.

"More arrests will be made soon" Bernstein said.

Federal agents said the company shipped between 600 and 800 gallons of liquor a day to all parts of the country.

"None of the beverages had an alcoholic content of more than half of one per cent," Assistant District Attorney Miller said.

KILLER WILL MEET DEATH AS PAYMENT

COLUMBUS, O., July 8.—William "Billy" Clark, of Cleveland and Toledo, will be sent into eternity late today or tonight for the murder of Ralph Hoffman, a farmer of near Fremont.

The youth's last chance for a reprieve, or even a brief respite was believed gone today.

The state board of clemency which convened in Mansfield to review his appeal, apparently has turned a deaf ear. His efforts to escape the chair by having himself adjudged insane also have failed.

Clark's only eleventh hour hope was the governor but Gov. Donahay has declared he will not intervene unless the clemency board recommends mercy.

A death watch stood guard over the youth's cell this morning as the remaining hours of his life drew to a close. Clark paced the iron cage nervously as the prison chaplain conversed with him in low tones.

ACCIDENTALLY KILLED

PAINESVILLE, O., July 8.—While they were preparing to shoot rats, Robert Humphrey, 13, was accidentally shot and killed by another playmate. The gun, a .22 calibre rifle was discharged, the bullet piercing the boy's heart.

JAZZ CARRYING RACE BACK TO CAVEMAN ERA SAYS MUSICIAN

LONDON, July 8.—Jazz music is carrying the present generation back to the instincts of cavemen and savages, Dr. Henry Coward, prominent English composer and musician authority told the United Press in an interview.

Dr. Coward declared that modern dances such as the exaggerated foxtrot and the Charleston, which followed the introduction of jazz as a "fixed standard" of music, have "turned back pages of progress to the drunken revelry or lesser breeds."

"It is not the noise, lack of rhythm or the ugly cleverness of jazz that I object to," Dr. Coward said, "but it is the exploitation of this class of ambitious gaiety which has been injected upon all people as a 'fixed standard' of music for all occasions."

"The jerky rhythm, the hoisting, out-of-tone saxophones, the plonking beats of the banjos and the grotesque howlings and boisterous banging of toys and kitchen utensils is degrading to all artistic sense and possesses atavistic tendencies in carrying civilization back to the first stage of music."

"The antics of bodily movement which have been devised to fit these humdrum sounds, can only be compared with the oddity of the dances of the plantation slaves of eighty years ago. Jazz music and jazz dancing is the outgrowth of a degraded taste for art in the better class of people, with the result that the lesser classes saw the acceptance of jazz by people who should know better and felt that they should immediately accept this form of orgy to be 'proper.'"

"The effect of such wild revelations which have followed in the wake of this so-called music, upon the thought, life, action, dress, morals, and speech of the young people of today is difficult to conceive, especially upon a stage of civilization which should be very much above such a plane."

"The sooner we return to the music of our grandfathers, the sooner will we be able to maintain a better standard of art, of morality such as many a parent now wishes for a son or daughter."

Dr. Coward's recent criticisms of modern music has brought him to the fore as a protester against "jazz." He visited the United States with his famous Sheffield Choir of 220 persons in 1908 and again in 1911. During these tours programs were given at Chicago, Detroit, Rochester, N. Y., Columbus, O., Cleveland, Cincinnati, St. Paul and Minneapolis.

AUTO DRIVER, LIKE MUSICIAN, MUST DEVELOP SENSE OF TOUCH

What are the qualifications of an expert driver of an automobile? Skilled mechanics, who teach people to drive cars give some interesting information along the line of certain fine points that distinguish the expert from the ordinary driver.

They say a good driver is one who—

Has "touch" for his car; knows just how quickly to let in his clutch; knows just when to shift gears; presses the accelerator just far enough and at the right time, and handles his ignition switch correctly.

These are some points for the neophyte motorist to paste in his cap and memorize when he starts out.

Take for instance the sense of "touch," merely one of the fine points known by the good driver, the man who feels his car as a musician feels his instrument. The good driver, the one behind whom everybody likes to ride—

It is possible to open it too wide when climbing a hill. It is not always best to feed the gas steadily,—under certain conditions the motor will take it much better if given in "jerks" with a few seconds of rest between them. This gradual, steady opening of the throttle on a hill, for example, will often kill the power, and on either hill or level ground the motor must be given ample time to respond between admission of more gas to the cylinders.

Of course the new driver has a great deal of trouble with his clutch and gears. He has no sense of feeling for them, lets the clutch in too quickly, and starts the machine with a head-splitting jerk. Many men, even after they have driven a car for years, never learn how to handle the clutch properly.

An observer on any street corner can see the faulty technique of many drivers, but it takes an expert to tell exactly what is wrong.

CURFEW WILL RING FOR ROADHOUSES

AKRON, O., July 8.—Summit County roadhouses will be governed by a midnight curfew henceforth, Sheriff Charles Weaver announced today. Sheriff Weaver ordered the new time restrictions as a result of the death of Mrs. Otto Coppage, 24, a mute, who was killed by an automobile after escaping from two abductors.

The tragedy occurred in the Lake Resorts District where road houses according to Weaver have been running "wide open."

Mrs. Coppage was kidnapped after her abductors beat her escort. After her escape she ran to a highway and attempted to stop an automobile. She was run down and killed. Her body has been removed to East Liverpool for burial.

YOUNG PEOPLE ARE GUESTS AT SAYRE HOME

One of the most delightful of the informal parties enjoyed by groups of the younger set, was entertained by Messrs. Edward Sayre and Robert Currie at the Sayre home, N. King St., Wednesday evening.

Fifteen couples were guests at the affair. Dancing was the main center of attraction, with music furnished by the Orthophonic. The perfect Summer evening invited groups of the guests to the wide veranda and lawn for occasional periods.

Ice, cake and coffee were served at a late hour. Miss Martha Doyle, Springfield, was the only out-of-town guest at the party.

The Rev. David Powers and Mrs. Julia Mather, spent the week end in Urbana, the guests of Mrs. William Powers.

Mr. and Mrs. B. E. Franklin, East Cleveland, spent the week end and the Fourth with Professor and Mrs. D. M. Barnes, High St., Mrs. Franklin's parents.

Miss Margaret Meredith returned Tuesday to her home in Yellow Springs, after several days visit with Miss Grace Kneisley, Troy, O. A number of informal parties were arranged in her honor during her visit.

Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Anderson, Mr. and Mrs. Carlton Anderson, Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Baxter, and son Dick, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Heaton and family, and the Misses Irene Robinson, Emma Saunders, Gwen Saunders, Donald Cost and Mrs. Mary Inman, Mr. James Kyle and Mr. Earl Heaton spent the Fourth at Russell's Point.

Mrs. Venice Haynes, Miami, Fla., was the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Street, and family, of near Jasper, over the Fourth.

Mr. George Pope, Whiteman St. is still confined to his home by illness.

The Misses Frances and Rachel Gustin, Springfield, Mo., are visiting their aunt, Mrs. Roy Jones, E. Second St., and other relatives in the county.

Mrs. Lawrence Davis, W. Second St., who received burns to her right hand and arm, when a firecracker exploded at the home of her sister, Mrs. Albert Sanders, Jamestown, Monday, is seriously ill from effects of the burns. Her hand has become infected and Mrs. Davis is suffering extreme pain.

Miss Betty Virginia Hartsoek, Waynesville, O., is the guest of Mrs. Cora Macy, W. Market St., for the week.

Mrs. Mary A. Hicks returned home Wednesday after visiting several days with her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Virgil Allen, Dayton.

Miss Hazel Baumgardner, Springfield, O., is visiting Mrs. Earl Reed, near Yellow Springs.

Mrs. Frank Willett, Beaver Creek Road, who has been ill two weeks with grip now has malaria fever.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Wolary and son, Dan, Zanesville, spent the week end with Mr. Wolary's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Sid Wolary, E. Market St. Miss Rose Wolary accompanied them home for a two weeks' visit.

Mrs. Earl Reed, Hyde Road, near Yellow Springs, is slowly recovering from a sprained ankle, received several days ago.

Social planned by Pride of Xenia, D. of A. No. 140, for Thursday evening, has been postponed until a later date, owing to illness.

Miss Helen Ford is leaving Sunday for Des Moines, Ia., to attend the National Business and Professional Women's Club convention, as delegate from the Xenia B. P. W. Club. She will join the Columbus delegation in that city, together with other delegates from this section.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Tribby, Dayton, Miss Katherine Mitchell, Xenia; Mr. Victor Esterline, Yellow Springs, returned home Tuesday morning after visiting Mr. and Mrs. George Tribby, Toledo, over the Fourth.

Mr. M. W. Monroe and son, Minor, Jr., E. Market St., left Tuesday for Washington, Philadelphia and other Eastern cities, to spend several days.

Mrs. Minnie Sachs, Pittsburgh, Pa., formerly of this city, has been spending the past week with Mr. and Mrs. I. Friedman.

Miss Bernice Hyman, Waynesville, O., is the guest of her aunt, Mrs. L. S. Hyman, E. Market St. She will remain during the week, attending Chautauqua.

Mrs. Harry Polaski and daughter, of Piqua, O.; Mr. and Mrs. Harry Giffel, Pittsburgh, Pa., are the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Isaac Colp, S. Detroit St.

Miss Mary Kelso, Dayton, underwent a tonsillectomy at the hospital of Drs. Madden and Shields, Thursday morning.

Mr. and Mrs. E. S. Savage, Jr., West Englewood, N. J., who have been visiting Prof. and Mrs. D. H. Barnes, High St., the past two weeks, started on their return trip Thursday morning. They will stop for a short visit with Mr. and Mrs. B. E. Franklin, East Cleveland, who also spent the past week-end and Fourth here.

MUSSOLINI ORDERS LAKE PARTIALLY DRAINED TO RECOVER ROMAN TREASURE

ROME, July 8.—Two galleys in which the bodies of the Caesars occurred, lying at the bottom of Lake Nemi, near here, are to be raised according to the plans of Mussolini.

The galleys are full of art treasure, and were the scene of feasts with music and scantily clad dancing girls in the old days.

The Duce had ordered the Minister for Education, Pietro Fedele, to proceed with the scheme for the recovery of the vessels devised by Engineer Malfatti of the Civil Engineering service.

Minister Fedele has called together a commission consisting of Senator Corrado Ricci, Professor Arduino Colasanti, and Professor Roberto Paribeni to represent the archeological side of the question, while Engineer Saladini of the Civil Engineers and Engineer Pugliese, director of the naval shipyard at Castellamare di Stabia, will direct the technical work of raising.

The bottom of the Lake of Nemi, which is an ancient crater, reaches a depth of 300 feet in parts. The two galleys which lie embedded in the mud in more than 100 feet of water are known to contain treasure in the way of ornamental bronzes, statuary, and utensils. Two handsome bronzes formerly taken from one of the ships are now in the Rome National Museum.

The project which has been decided upon consists in temporarily lowering the level of the water of the lake by the building of a conduit, which will carry it down into the plain and on to the sea.

This is possible, as Lake Nemi lies in the Alban hills at an elevation of several hundred feet.

The project, which when completed will make Nemi famous as a tourist and archeological center, will require at least two years for its execution, and will entail an expense of several millions of lire, not all of which has yet been provided for.

Damage suit filed

Sequel to traffic accident in Xenia

Curtis Hale, Xenia taxi driver, is named defendant in a suit for $5,125 damages filed in Common Pleas Court by J. J. Turner, this city, who alleges he was seriously injured when struck by an auto driven by Hale as he walked across Main St. at Main and Columbus Sts., December 19, 1925.

Turner alleges he sustained a broken right leg, two ribs were broken and he received other bruises more or less serious which kept him confined to bed four months. He claims to be still disabled and prevented from pursuing his occupation.

Defendant, according to the petition, was driving at the rate of thirty-five miles an hour, going west on Main St. and without sounding a warning of his horn, struck Turner.

Turner claims he was crossing that part of the street assigned to pedestrians.

His injuries resulted in medical attention and bills of a physician and nurse amounting to $125, petition recites. An additional $5,000 because of the injuries is sought.

U. S. Senator Willis addressed 600 members of the Ex-Pupils' Association of the Ohio Soldiers' and Sailors' Orphans' Home at the banquet which featured the annual reunion here Wednesday evening.

Aids Ponzi

Mrs. Rose Ponzi, faithful during all of her husband's troubles, hastened to him again, this time to Texas, where he is held. She announced her intention of pleading with Governor "Ma" Ferguson not to return him to Massachusetts, where a seven-year term awaits.

INDEPENDENCE

ON this 150th anniversary of the Declaration of Independence, it would be well if that document could be read throughout the world.

It is the great document of democracy. And today the world needs democracy. The war fought as Americans believed to "make the world safe for democracy" has failed so far. Human freedom has slipped back. In spite of the upsetting of kings and emperors, there has been a revival of autocracy, of new efforts to tyrannize over men. Individualism—the right of each to think and act for himself as long as he respects the rights of others—is menaced as it has not been for generations.

In Russia there is a "radical" tyranny. In Italy there is a "conservative" tyranny. There is government by dictation in half a dozen other European countries. There are tyrannies of individuals, of minorities, of majorities. America is not free from them.

The Declaration of Independence points out the eternal principles of that individualism which means democracy. It maintains the inherent right of all men to equality of opportunity, to equal representation in government, to the kind of government preferred by a majority, to the protection of minorities from abuse of power by majorities.

It implies the right of individuals and groups to their own religious faith, their own scientific faith, their own inner life. It implies tolerance.

It recognizes that if mankind were all made exactly alike, this would be an intolerable world of human insects. It recognizes that while men must work together for common welfare and progress, every man is an individual mind and soul, and the highest function of society is to develop individuality.

Read the Declaration and the Bill of Rights—the first ten amendments to the United States Constitution—and see if this is not true Americanism.

SPORTING BLOOD

THE AMERICAN INDIAN, whatever his faults and defects, was not only a good fighter but a good sport. This latter characteristic is brought out clearly in an almost forgotten incident told by Charles Dickens in his "American Notes."

In a small middle-western town Dickens foregathered with an old settler who had done much negotiating with the Indians on behalf of the government. The settler spoke feelingly of the strong attachment the Indians had for the familiar scenes of their childhood and their burial places. Then he spoke of a recent treaty made with a local tribe whereby it was to move west beyond the Mississippi.

"He had witnessed many such removals," wrote Dickens, "and always with pain, though he knew that they departed for their own good. The question whether this tribe should go or stay had been discussed by them a day or two before in a hut erected for the purpose, the logs of which still lay upon the ground before the inn."

"When the speaking was done, the ayes and noes were ranged on opposite sides, and every male adult voted in his turn. The moment the result was known, the minority—a large one—cheerfully yielded to the rest and withdrew all opposition."

It is a great thing to be able to acquiesce in a decision of the majority and, while not agreeing with them, to be a good sport about it. Sportsmanship should be inherent in this country.

Today's Talk

THE WORLD OF MAKE-BELIEVE

Underneath our dreams are the things we do—and the men and women that we are.

Just bordering—always—this practical world, is that world of Make-believe, through which all the dross of the artist, the writer, the builder, the thinker, and dreamer is sifted.

We never reach our ideals. We only think about them, reach for them—and run for them. But this is the thing that keeps them alive for us. Of course there are those who believe that they will reach their ideals—and so it is that we have great men and women.

And it is much better to aim for worthy things and plan toward large achievements, even though you do not approach them, than to aim at nothing and get everything that you don't want.

The child knows nothing of the bitterness, the suffering and disappointments of life. Its smiles are bathed in a veritable sea of Make-believe. And it sees all the great things that the old heads worry so much about—and yet without any disturbance, and all within a spirit of belief and reality.

Let the child dream! And leave the man or woman alone with his or her dreams.

When Westinghouse went to that unique old man, Commodore Vanderbilt, with his invention for stopping cars by air pressure, Vanderbilt laughed at the chap and showed him the door. Now every train is equipped with those brakes in their most improved form.

The writer of fiction sees the ways of men and women, then he dreams and leads some god of the imagination to these people of his brain and asks that god to make new clothes for them and put uniqueness to their lives. Then he writes a great story that we all read.

We like to feel that we are in countries which we may never visit, in lives with which we may never associate beyond these Make-believe visits of ours.

WARM DISCUSSION OCCUPIES COUNCIL

Heated discussion over important municipal topics of which the main discussion centered upon the proposed new waterworks plant to be built at a cost of $63,000 if approved by the voters at the November election, featured a stormy session of the Yellow Springs village council Tuesday night.

After verbal battles it was decided to have the necessary resolution for the water works plant drafted for presentation at the next council meeting.

Suggestion that the pay of volunteer firemen be boosted from thirty-five cents to seventy-five cents an hour drew such a verbal barrage it was voted down.

Proposal to provide telephones for three deputy marshals of Yellow Springs was also discussed. The officers are without this means of communication.

Lastly a pair of handcuffs, recently purchased, was on display. Two drunkards were arrested last week, to which the action of buying handcuffs was attributed.

Pineapple-Cherry Marmalade: Stone any kind of cherries, sweet or sour, and to one pound of them (measured after stoning) add one-half pound of finely-diced pineapple. Chop these fruits by hand separately. After mixing them together in your preserving kettle, add one pound of granulated sugar and bring to the boiling point. Let simmer till thick, stirring constantly. It is best to use the "jelly test," to ascertain when the mixture is thick enough: raise a little of the hot juice high in the air, in a spoon, and drip it back into the kettle; if two drops form at once at the edge of the spoon, the mixture will "jell" when turned into hot, sterilized jelly glasses. Cover down when cold with melted paraffine wax.

Pineapple-Strawberry Conserve: Into your preserving kettle put two cups of shredded pineapple and water barely to cover, and let cook gently till soft. Then add two cups of ripe strawberries and continue to cook till the strawberries are also soft. Now measure the hot fruit mixture and add three-fourths as much sugar as fruit. Return mixture to the preserving kettle and simmer till it falls in heavy drops from the tip of a spoon. Then turn into hot, sterilized glasses (that is, glasses which have previously been boiled, empty, in water to cover and firm cover, for fifteen minutes) and when cold and firm cover with melted paraffine wax.

To Make Pectin at Home: Helpful manufacturers have put on the market bottled pectin which the housewife may buy and add to her jellies which do not happen to "jell" firmly. The element which causes a jelly to become firm is a glue-like substance called "pectin," very pronounced in some fruits (apples, currants, quinces, orange and lemons, especially) and

ON Greene County History

COUNTY COMMISSIONERS

Office of county commissioner did not exist in Ohio in 1803, the year in which Greene County was officially established.

Work of commissioners was then carried on by associate judges who set aside a session for transaction of county business.

Board of county commissioners was created February 14, 1804, by an act of Ohio General Assembly.

An election was held on the first Monday of April, 1804 and Jacob Smith, James Snoden and John Sterritt presented their certificates of election June 11, 1804. The board held its first session the same day at the home of Peter Borders on Beaver Creek.

As the term of county commissioners at that time was at three years, one member being elected annually, these first commissioners drew lots for rank. Jacob Smith drew for three years, Sterritt for two and Snoden for one.

Election of the county continued to elect a commissioner every year with the state legislature changed the term of county officials in 1906.

It was then the term of commissioner was placed at two years and all three were to be elected at the same time. That act also provided that its provisions would become effective in 1909, thus giving officers an opportunity to finish their terms.

Law has since been changed and all three commissioners are now elected at once.

ADMITS ATTACK

MARION, O., July 8.—William Boyd, alias Robert Fredencal, 21, negro, has confessed breaking into the home of T. J. Hill, Caledonia and attacking Hill's sister-in-law, Miss Bertha Kightlinger. Boyd said he entered the home with the intention of looting it. Miss Kightlinger awakened, he said, and he struck her. The girl was in a critical condition but is now recovering.

Florenz Zeigfeld, the well-known glorifier of America's girlish charms, has done Broadway a good turn with his summer revue, "No Foolin'," lately known as "The Palm Beach Girl," people who have seen the production are pleased to note

Claire Luce, Rae Dooley, Gretta Nissen, (lately of the pictures) James Barton and others do some excellent entertaining in the best Zeigfeldian tradition. Bored reviewers find it delightful because it leans away from the extravagant, thus producing good hot weather amusement.

Speaking of Ziggy, as we of the ribbon-counter like to call him, he has made it known that the ten-year-old daughter (how time flies) of him and Miss Billie Burke had $10,000 worth of jewels stolen from her.

Upon which The New Yorker amiably comments with the terse statement that parents who allow a child to possess $10,000 worth of jewels, ought to be spanked, no matter how prominent they are.

"To cap the fantastic climax," continues the New Yorker, "Zeigfeld has stated that the jewels were given to the little girl by great artists, including himself and Miss Burke." But then, The New Yorker is anything if not cynical.

The same convenient source of summer news is responsible for the newest and brightest excuse to be offered by a chorus girl who failed to appear for a matinee performance.

While I am writing this column today, please forgive me if I take the opportunity to stick out my tongue at W. C. Fields, the alleged comedian, who is letting David Wark Griffith pilot his way into the movies.

There are those who say that Mr. Fields earned his salt in musical comedy but his work in the pictures in which this reviewer saw him was one of the saddest pervasions of the comic muse ever any misfortune to survive. Mr. Fields was forced and studied in his actions instead of being spontaneous, as the comedian must. But then, much of this heaviness must be blamed upon the direction of Mr. Griffith, who continues to ruin good plots with clumsy direction in spite of Will Hays and the Motion Pictures Exhibitors' Association.

If you are an admirer of Griffith, with hold your epithets until you attempt to recall what he has done besides "Way Down East."

INDIANA STARTING JUDGE WILL OFFICIATE AT FAIR RACES HERE

A. S. Beaulieu, Logansport, Ind., will officiate as starting judge during the harness racing at the Greene County Fair, August 3, 4, 5, and 6, according to an announcement made by Secretary J. Robert Bryson, Wednesday. He comes highly recommended. Racing program compiled by the speed committee of the Greene County Agricultural Society this year will be governed by the rules of The Harness Horse Association, Secretary Bryson announces. One of the basic rules of the association is that horses are classified according to the amount of money they win and not by track records they make. This is a departure from other years in Greene County. Every time a horse wins $500 it is classified in a division two seconds faster than his previous class. Of all horses starting in the 2:24 class, trot or pace, on the mile track his winnings must be $1,000 to reduce his classification two seconds, the secretary says. Races this year, as in former years, will be decided on the three heat plan with every heat a race. Purses will be divided into three equal parts after ten per cent has been set aside for the winner of the race. Heat money will be divided 50, 25, 15, and 10 per cent. Entrance money will be added to the purse making this year's purses range from $400 to $700. The Greene County Hardware Co. 2:12 pace for a $500 purse and N. N. Hunter free-for-all pace for $500 purse are the leading events scheduled for the three-day meeting. The Greene County Hardware Co. and N. N. Hunter, Jamestown, are guarantors of the purses. Xenia has never failed to give its patrons the best racing that can be seen anywhere and the present Harness Horse Association rules should make this year's races surpass all other years," Secretary Bryson says.

AMERICA'S BEST KNOWN GOLFERS START OPEN TOURNAMENT PLAY

SCIO TO COUNTRY CLUB, COLUMBUS, O., July 8.—Shooting a 33, three under par, for the first time, "Wild Bill" Mehlnor, the New York pro swept into the lead in the initial play in the National Open Golf finals here today. Mehlnor played sensational golf from the start, collecting "birdies" on four holes, par on four and weakening only on the ninth hole which he took in four, one over par. Joe Turnesa, Elmford, N. Y.; George McLean, Bronxville, N. Y., and Al Espinosa, the Chicago pro are in a three-way tie for second place with thirty-five each, one under par. COLUMBUS, O., July 8.—America's best known golfing figures today appeared on the newly remodelled course of the Scioto Country Club for the first day of the American Open Tournament. From 8:45 a. m. until 3:05 p. m., at intervals of five minutes, the stars of the links were scheduled to leave the first tee on their quest of the country's leading golf title which will not be decided until Saturday. The entry list disclosed the names of 153 golfers, more than 100 of whom were forced to qualify in sectional rounds, and the field was but little reduced by scratches. Probably never before in the history of American open championships has so many high-ranking professionals and amateurs entered for the three days' play. Bobby Jones, with his recent overseas record topped by the annexation of the British open title, is the favorite. Bobby last year bowed to Willie McFarlane only after a heartrending play-off in which one hole was the deciding factor and the young Atlanta is determined to win his second American crown. Other amateurs who will match their skill with professionals include George Von Elm, who tied with Walter Hagen for third place in the British open, Watts Gunn, last year's runner-up in the amateur championship, Roland Mackenzie of Washington and Max Marston.

Staff of Ad Writers Now Employed!

I wish to announce that this ad THIS week has been written by different members of the company. I'm tired of doing this work myself and feel that I should make every effort to catch up with my fishing. I hope you like what they've writ.

Yours truly,
Wm. B. McCallister, Gen. Mgr.

NAU'S!

Written by Jack Willett.

Any person in Greene County wishing to obtain a first class nail will do themselves, their family and their children a great favor if they will come in here and talk the question over with us. Those NOT desiring a nail but feel that they should know something about nails can come in and LISTEN while we explain. We have all sorts at all prices. Make this your headquarters for nails.

MOPS!

Written by Beeler of the Gazette.

I have been requested by Mr. Wm. B. McCallister to write an ad on this subject and certainly I feel proud and haughty at the confidence reposed in me on such a mission. I have spent three days trying to find out the real nature of a mop so's I could tell here what I've found but so far nothing has been discovered.

Pitchforks!

Author Unknown
Thousands upon thousands of Americans NEVER use a pitchfork. Other thousands use a pitchfork OCCASIONALLY. There are others who use pitchforks regularly and it is to THESE that we appeal. Our pitchforks are house broke, sharp-witted and economical, requiring only a minimum of attention from the family. We have such for sale here.

SPADES

Written by Beal.
A Spade is an instrument made use of by many people for hole digging. The ones we have here are made of steel and wood, are ornamental, and if kept properly lubricated and tuned up are guaranteed for 9 years. No home should be without a spade. Ask me for specifications!

COW EASE!

Written by Harry Sutton
Cow Ease is the Service Dept. of a Dairy. When used on a cow it makes the cow calm and peaceful, causing the cow to deliver from 15 to 40 times MORE milk than it would otherwise. I do not vouch for these figures as I am in the automobile business.

LANTERNS!

Written by Hutch

This is a subject that should NOT be taken lightly. There are many, many folks who make light of lanterns approaching the matter in a spirit of levity. This is wrong, as you readily will see after you have talked this matter over with us. We have several terms which are real bar-trade-ins" or used lang-gains. Also new 1927 models just in.

FLY NETS!

Written by Bernard Sutton.

The Studebakers, Overlands and Willys-Nites I sell here do NOT need fly nets. There ARE no flies on these cars at ALL! McCallister requested me to write a poem or an ad on this subject but I have found from experience that NO one can write poetry except during the early spring months A fly net, however MAY be al right and I hope you buy some

WOULD TAKE UP PREACHING

If I could start this life again, my future'd be a daisy; I'd never wield this irksome pen, nor rush about like crazy; I'd have my name upon my door, in social life I'd highly score, and late each morn I'd sweetly snore—O brother, I'd be lazy; I would have none of stress and gloom—my life would all be gay, I'd get myself a furnished room, and live upon baled hay, and then I'd start out preaching, I'd do a lot of teaching—I know my line of screeching would sound odd every day.

Each Sunday morn I'd have a spiel to give my congregation; I'd warn them that they mustn't steal to escape the conflagration; I'd speak of where the roses grow and angels never stub their toe, and show them where they ought to go instead of sad damnation. Each Sunday noon I'd visit out, and eat a country dinner; I'd tell the family all about how I was once a sinner; I'd eat their pies and chickens and talk to beat the dickens, Old Satan would get his lickens, and I would be the winner. And when I'd crank my flivver, to start my journey home; my friends would be the giver of honey in the comb; they'd load me up with victuals all ready for the kettles, while I'd sing "Ho Hum Diddles," and think of beer with foam.

At home I'd stay six days a week and lead a life of ease; but now and then I'd take a sneak beneath the woodland trees; I'd take my gun from off the stairs and sally forth to shoot some hares or maybe hunt for polar bears—I'd do what ere I'd please. And now and then for lovers I'd have to tie the knot; to some I'd charge a goodly sum and some "What e'er you got," I'd make a lot of jack each day by telling sweethearts to obey and steer away from every fray and other tommyrot.

Oh, I could stand the people's talk, and have them members of my flock; just so they'd give me lots of eats, and Sunday fill the row of seats, if they'd but freely then disburse the hard earned contents of their purse. I would have none of stress and gloom—my life would all be gay, I'd get myself a furnished room, and live upon baled hay, and then I'd start out preaching, I'd do a lot of teaching—I know my line of screeching would sound odd every day.

the office of Wilkin and Wilkin. It lay unopened during the absence of Wilkin but was forwarded to Mrs. Stephenson Thursday morning upon his return to the office.

It was the supposition Wednesday that Stephenson's Dodge automobile was also missing but this was cleared up when the machine was found stored in the Swigart Bros. garage, E. Second St.

Stephenson placed the auto in his own garage Tuesday noon, an unusual act since he used it to drive back and forth to the office. When Mrs. Stephenson questioned him, he said he wanted to park it out of the sun.

It is believed now, he intended to leave it in the garage for safe keeping and was contemplating his departure then. When questioned by his wife, however, he removed the car and drove it to a time as his own garage was undergoing repairs. Garage owners reported the car was there Wednesday and exploded the theory it had been used by Stephenson for his departure. Mrs. Stephenson when she recovered the car there Wednesday afternoon, denied that the family garage was being repaired.

Authorities believe this indicated the bookkeeper had planned his departure and dissipated a theory he was an amnesia victim, and had left the office hurriedly because of having been effected mentally in some way by the severe storm.

Officials of the company also put to rest any belief his disappearance was the result of the annual audit of the concern's books being made by Wolf and Co., Chicago accountants, which started Tuesday morning.

Although the audit is not yet complete, the books show no shortage in his accounts, according to W. R. Harner, official of the company. Mr. Harner expressed the opinion he suffered a nervous breakdown because of the burden of his work. The Stephenson family was also planning an extended trip through the East, and in a hurry to straighten out his affairs with the company before he took his departure, Stephenson is thought to have suffered a temporary mental relapse.

Mrs. Stephenson exhausted every avenue of possible inquiry Wednesday in the search for the missing man. She motored to Dayton in a search for clues and then to Goes Station to question Mr. Shoemaker.

Police Chief M. E. Graham communicated with Detroit police by telephone Wednesday, instructing them to watch for the missing bookkeeper. Police cards furnishing a description of Stephenson were sent out by the Davey Co. Wednesday.

Mrs. Stephenson, who was almost prostrated with grief Tuesday and Wednesday, was greatly relieved when the letter arrived. Stephenson has two children, Elizabeth, aged 12 and Florence, aged 6.

CHAUTAUQUA PROGRAM OPENED THURSDAY WITH MUSICIANS

Xenia Redpath Chautauqua opened Thursday afternoon at 3 o'clock in the tent at Detroit and Church Sts.

Harold Lewis and his symphony players, a quality instrumental company from New York City, opened the program. Their afternoon concert will be followed by an evening program, preliminary to the address of Charles Howard Platt, burg on "The Modern Tale of Two Cities."

Sam Grathwell, typical American "pep" artist, is slated for morning and afternoon discussions Friday. "Thinkers and Thinkers" is announced as his morning talk subject and in the afternoon he will discuss "Getting by Your Hoodoo." Friday evening, a large cast will present the much discussed drama of Channing Pollock, "The Fool."

Howard Wade Kinney, noted song leader, will introduce community singing into Chautauqua Saturday. At the piano will be heard Lora Orth Kinney, who is heard regularly with Mr. Kinney over radio in connection with the S. Park Cadman meetings. Associated with Mr. and Mrs. Kinney on Chautauqua's third day are John H. Dickason, in morning and afternoon lectures, and D. Thomas Curtin international newspaper correspondent, answering the question: "What is Ahead in Europe?" Mr. Curtin was the center of Lord Northcliffe's recent press investigation on various battlefronts during the World War. His books include, "The Land of Deepening Shadows," "The Edge of the Quicksands," and "The Tyranny of Power."

An innovation this year is the elimination of the regular Chautauqua program Sunday in order not to conflict with the church services. On that day, however, the Chautauqua management has placed at the disposal of the local people its tent and equipment and the program is being arranged by them which will feature special music and speaking in a union service Sunday night.

While the Moscow Artist Ensemble is the highly featured attraction Monday, patrons are sure to be delighted with Anne Campbell, "The poet of the home." For several years Miss Campbell has been writing daily verses for the Detroit News and her clientele has been greatly enlarged by her radio broadcast.

In celebration of the 150th year of American Independence, children of Xenia, under the direction of the junior supervisor will present a costume pageant, "The Quill," Tuesday afternoon.

Day afternoon, which will be followed immediately by Harrison Crofford, an experienced actor and entertainer and a distinct asset to the literary branch of the 1926 program. On the evening of the same day Chautauqua patrons will revel in the rare comedy "Applesauce."

Chautauqua's closing day, next Wednesday, brings Al Baker, magician and ventriloquist with his co-entertainer "Dummy Danis." A musical prelude will be given for Mr. Baker's afternoon performance by the Fiechtl Yodlers of Switzerland. Evening presentation of this group will be scenic production "Echoes of the Alps" in which the art of modeling will be demonstrated.

As in previous years, morning and afternoon Junior Chautauqua sessions will be conducted by a trained supervisor. Stories, games and preparation for the historical pageant will occupy the boys and girls each day. "Junior Town" officers will be elected and will have an important part in the evenings of the week.

(Chautauqua sessions begin promptly at 3 p. m., and 8 p. m. Morning lectures are at 10:30. Season tickets are good for all sessions

MACK TAKES ANOTHER DRINK OF ALLEGED CIDER AND COMPOUNDS BED TIME YARN

By MACK SAUER

I have quite a surprise for you. I have been thinking about what this old world will be like fifty years from now. You will be surprised, of course, to learn that I can think.

Penetrating fifty years into the future, I see silk costing $30 per yard, but dresses a little cheaper. This is explained by the fact that it will require only a square foot of silk to make a dress then, whereas now nearly a square yard is needed for making the average gown.

In 1976 it will be difficult to determine whether a lady is carrying a dress or a handkerchief in her hand, as the two will be about alike in size. The flapper two-score-and-ten years hence will be able to take enough clothes for a two weeks' vacation in the average hand bag of today. Trunks will be the size of the 1926 shoe boxes.

The idea of brotherly love as taught by the luncheon clubs of today will not spread to any great extent, but, for instance, wherever there is a city, with two or three orchestras in its midst, there will be a filling station for bass drums. Then there will be typewriter specialists. Not the typewriter specialists of today, but specialists who will work on only certain parts of the typewriter. There will be the expert who will work only on the letter "M." Another will be a specialist on the "Q. T." etc.

Fifty years hence, the United States will be mobilizing troops and supplies and getting things in readiness for a war with Chicago, which city will be held by robbers, thieves and criminals of every kind. Newspapers will rush war correspondents there.

By 1976 the idea that Columbus discovered America will be laughed at, and the story of Rip Van Winkle will be doubted. No one will believe that Benjamin Franklin wrote Peck's Bad Boy and bright young school boys will scoff at the idea that "an apple a day keeps the doctor away."

What of Congress? Congress will be debating the question of prohibiting the building of subways in our cities, because of their undermining our youth. The luncheon clubs of the world will succeed in teaching the public to think the purpose of the vulcanizing business is service, but those engaged in the work will charge for their services just the same.

Newspapers will print photos of married couples who live together five years or more. Each county in Ohio will be entitled to a divorce judge for every 500 inhabitants, and a divorce court will work two shifts of twelve hours each daily, in order to take care of the divorce cases. There will be no barber shops, as women will be bald and men will shave and cut their own.

The expression "He Has Gone to Heaven" will be very common, meaning that a certain person has gone to his work in the sky, whether it be selling tickets at an air line station, or piloting a transport above the clouds.

In the medical world great discoveries will have been made. In addition to the ailments now attributed to defective teeth, we will find broken ankles, measles, dandruff, bunions and toothache also traced to defective molars.

Children will receive no education, as there will be no one bright enough to teach them anything. It will be a dumb old world. And everyone will be up in the air most of the time.

Attaches of the hospital declared Mrs. Turnbull has been able to walk around for a time but that it is uncertain whether she will be removed from the hospital.

Crash occurred at King and Union Sts. Mrs. Turnbull's daughter, Mrs. H. C. Armstrong, and also her grand daughter, Miss Josephine Armstrong, occupied the auto, and with Miss Shadrach, were slightly bruised.

Funeral services were held at the home in Port William Thursday.

Mrs. Jane A. Starbuck, 75, Port William, died at the hospital of Dr. R. L. Haines, Jamestown, Tuesday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock. She had been under Dr. Haines' care for dropsy and heart trouble, from which she had suffered some time and which caused her death.

Surviving are four children, Roy, Sabina, Mrs. Russell Walker, Dayton; Mrs. E. C. Smith, West Alexandria; Earl, Waukegan, Ill.; and one sister, residing in Indiana. Mr. Starbuck preceded her in death a number of years ago.

Funeral services were held at the home in Port William Thursday.

Property owned by Dr. R. L. Haines, Jamestown, at Market and Whiteman Sts., Xenia, formerly the Confer property, has been sold by Dr. Haines to Edward Ervin, Jamestown. The deal was completed Wednesday.

The property, which included a large brick residence and garage, will be remodeled by Mr. Ervin and rented. The deal also involved the transfer of a double modern brick residence on Limestone St., Jamestown, owned by Mr. Ervin to Dr. Haines. The new purchaser will rent the Jamestown property to William Reed, Jamestown merchant.

An apron social will be held at St. John's A. M. E. Church Friday night, July 9. All persons having aprons with cards are to return to the church at 8 p. m. by request of Laura Ross, leader.

A social will be held at the home of Leroy Hicks, Evans Ave., Saturday evening, July 10, given by the Knights and Daughters of Tabor.

A moonlight picnic will be held by the Knights and Daughters of Tabor at John Tate's on Bryson Farm, Friday night, July 16. Wagons will start from Jordan Robbs', grocery, E. Main St., at 7 p. m.

The GILDED ROSE

by May Christie

LEADING CHARACTERS IN THE STORY:

ROSILYN PAGE, the hard-worked daughter of a Long Island innkeeper, finds herself on his death, heiress of a huge fortune. She is deeply in love with

LANDIS RIDGEWAY, a charming young fellow, in financial difficulties, who visited the inn regularly for ten years and was always kind to the lonely girl. His heart has been broken by the faithlessness of

LYDIA HARBROOK, beautiful and utterly heartless woman of the world who is planning to marry

STEVIE VAN VORST, a wealthy old roue, although she is fond of Landis.

MRS. FLORENCE RIDGEWAY, Landis' mother, fearing poverty invites Rosilyn to visit her and her son, and induces Landis to marry Rosilyn, although he loathes himself for taking her advice. Immediately after the ceremony, Rosilyn overhears gossip in which she learns that Landis has married her for her money—she hears herself spoken of as the Gilded Rose. Heartbroken, she prepares to leave on her wedding journey.

Lydia Harbrook meanwhile is in Paris, revelling in a glorious spring day.

CHAPTER 14

Thoughts of Landis moved dexterously about the apartment. When she went, self-centered Lydia—none the less had her own quota of that magic and commanding quality known as "charm"—obtained excellent service. At times absurdly generous, at other times abominably bad-tempered and capricious and exacting, she yet contrived, in her own selfish, headless way, to weave her spell over those who worked for her, so that they accorded her a measure of affection that—though oddly mixed with irritation and resentment—yet persisted.

"The Vicomte is in love with madame," murmured Toinette, helping her mistress to dress. "He is so young and handsome."

"And as poor as a church mouse," supplemented Lydia, laughing. "No thanks, not for me, my child! Of course I'd love to have the title—I'd make a charming Vicomtesse—but neither of us have a bean! Just the same, I love to tease that stuck up old haridan of a mother of his, by cantering in the Bois on Sunday mornings with her darling son! She knows I haven't got a dowry, and she's terrified I'll grab him!"

Toinette sighed sympathetically. "Here in France it is difficult to marry if one has no dowry. And the shortage of young men—" she flung her hands out in expressive gesture.

Lydia's lip curled. This worship of the male she could not understand.

"Oh, rubbish! I could have ten husbands tomorrow, if I wanted them."

"And the handsomest and the one I'd choose if I were Madame," announced the French girl unexpectedly, "is the tall, dark young man from New York with the oh! so captivating smile, who was here in Paris last summer, and always Madame's devoted cavalier! I can not say the name right—it was Reege—Reege—"

"Landis Ridgeway," Lydia's face was suffused with sudden color. "Yes, he's good looking, I grant you. But as hard up as I am myself, I'm not keen on bread and cheese and kisses. I prefer champagne and caviare." Her laugh rang out but the sharp ears of Toinette caught the false note in that laughter.

The phone bell tinkled. The maid went to answer it. Her face changed, stiffened, as she listened. She turned towards her mistress.

"Mr. Van Vorst desires to speak with Madame."

Lydia made a little "moue" as she darted to the instrument. Toinette, some that he had called up just now of all times. Such an enchanted Sunday morning of spring sunshine, and young leaves, and soft, balmy air! Youth! Romance! Happiness! They all called to her—

And now Van Vorst was going to spoil it all!

But her voice was cooling as she murmured into the telephone:

"That you, dear voice! Isn't it wonderful to hear your voice? So sorry I've a tiresome engagement for this morning, but I could lunch with you at the Ritz, or at Pallard's at half past one. What's that? Longchamps this afternoon? Would suit me splendidly! I've no decent clothes to wear—but you won't mind? What's that? I always look lovely in any old rags? You say deceiver! Little do you know—Oh, I'll come—but I haven't a bean to put on the horses! You'll see to that? How awfully kind of you! And we'll go to the Pre Catalan for tea? How charming! What's that you say? You've been taking dancing lessons to be upides with me? You say creature! Then we ought to dine at the Cafe de Paris tonight and you can practice the new steps! Yes they cook frogs' legs better there than anywhere. I'll say 'au revoir' now. Don't forget—the Ritz at half past one."

She replaced the receiver on its hook, turning to her maid. Her lovely face had a comical ruefulness upon it.

"Good Lord! Toinette, isn't it too awful? The man's been taking dancing lessons. Think of his tummy, and of his weight upon my toes!"

Toinette's lips were pursed into a disapproving line.

"His millions weigh still heavier," she said sententiously. "They will give madame fortune."

Lydia burst out laughing.

"Quite epigrammatic! Your head's screwed on, all right, Toinette!"

She caught up her riding crop and a pair of heavy gauntlet gloves. "I mustn't keep the Vicomte waiting. Don't forget to lay out the three-piece Premet model—the beige one with the cloak edged with sable I'll be back to change at one o'clock. Have everything ready."

And away she went, immaculately smart in her riding clothes.

It was indeed a heavenly Sunday morning. As Lydia and her Vicomte rode up the Champs Elysees that was gay with gorgeous cars and young, adorable green leaves and new spring clothes and sunshine, she forgave her youthful escort and old Van Vorst and her mind reverted uncontrollably to one Landis Ridgeway who was far away but—she was sure—definitely with her in spirit at this moment.

And he had loved her through it all.

Dear, handsome Landis! She had been a beast to him these many many times.

And he had loved her through it all.

She had enjoyed their many 'scenes' together. How he had wriggled on the hook in futile effort to escape her potent charm.

How useless were these writhings! He was hers, here—and always would be hers—no matter if she married the Van Vorst millions tomorrow!

She smiled to herself at the memory of the desperate interview the two of them had had down at the lonely marshland inn. It had added piquancy to the occasion and the necessary spice of danger, that Van Vorst himself—unknowning of her nearness—had been sleeping in the inn that night! What would he say if he had known? Had he any idea of the feeling that she had for Landis? Lydia's histrionic sense was highly developed and even here in Paris she could visualize the scene.

There would be many more such scenes in her young life, she told herself. They fed her vanity. They gave her such a sense of power.

But never, never would she let Landis Ridgeway stray from his allegiance to her. Married to old Van Vorst, Landis would be doubly hers, because millions of money would be backing her. She would tangle him in these millions, so that extrication—here she gave a complacent smile at the very thought that he might wish to escape! how too absurd it was!—so that extrication would be quite impossible.

At the pace he was going, no chance that Van Vorst would linger long on earth. His constitution was already undermined by gourmandizing and excesses. To doctors' warnings he paid little heed.

The obvious thing to do was to marry him while the sun shone, see that the settlements were all in order, keep out of his orbit as much as possible, enjoy herself with Landis and other fascinating swains and patiently await a rich young widowhood!

Such power as would be hers, then!

Riches and power and homage! Tomorrow: Just Like An Overstuffed Bullfrog.

There would be many more such scenes in her young life, she told herself. They fed her vanity. They gave her such a sense of power.

But never, never would she let Landis Ridgeway stray from his allegiance to her. Married to old Van Vorst, Landis would be doubly hers, because millions of money would be backing her. She would tangle him in these millions, so that extrication—here she gave a complacent smile at the very thought that he might wish to escape! how too absurd it was!—so that extrication would be quite impossible.

At the pace he was going, no chance that Van Vorst would linger long on earth. His constitution was already undermined by gourmandizing and excesses. To doctors' warnings he paid little heed.

The obvious thing to do was to marry him while the sun shone, see that the settlements were all in order, keep out of his orbit as much as possible, enjoy herself with Landis and other fascinating swains and patiently await a rich young widowhood!

Such power as would be hers, then!

Riches and power and homage! Tomorrow: Just Like An Overstuffed Bullfrog.
